Livingston, Coniglio: Goodwill conceals their differences

By PAUL WOLF

AT A crowded city hall election night, April 14, Phil Coniglio and Barbara Livingston hugged and congratulated each other while posing for the cameras.

They cheerfully swapped gestures of goodwill. But whatever rapport they maintain over the next four years, the two newly elected council members seem to share little on their political planks.

"There will be a tug of war, a real debate," Livingston, 63, said in a phone interview. "I have a bias and Phil has a bias. That's fine — we all take our bias with us in anything we do."

Livingston often remarked during the campaign that every candidate has a guiding philosophy. What her's is based on is the need to preserve Carmel's village character.

Excesses

Coniglio tends not to dwell on preservation, but instead on what he views as the excesses associated with that cause.

His biggest concerns lie with the plight of the small business owner, concerns of which he has a personal understanding. In Carmel, Coniglio points out, merchants must bear great expense and endure long waits to obtain city permits.

"My main issue," Coniglio said a few days after his election, "has been simplification. I don't want to sell out Carmel. I don't want T-shirt shops on every corner. But I do want to allow the independent little business more flexibility. Otherwise, only the franchises or chains are the ones who will be able to play the around here."

At various candidates' nights, Coniglio focused on the politics of business. Yet, when discussing the pull between the city's right to regulate and a property owner's right to improve a residential lot, his views were consistent: more flexibility has to be given private property.

A case in point. A couple wants to enclose their patio, and none of the neighbors protest. As far as Coniglio is concerned, even if the design doesn't fit the pattern books of precedent, the couple should be able to do what they wish.

Difference of emphasis

On many of these topics, it is not a point-by-point debate between Livingston and Coniglio, but rather a significant difference of emphasis.

On residential construction, Livingston is quicker to underscore the need of ensuring homes are in keeping with the streetscape than loosening the rein on private development. "I am in favor of

Even before swearing-in: White strives at accessibility

By PAUL WOLF

IN HIGH-SOUNDING terms, it would be something like glasnost Carmel-style. But in more simple language, it is an open-door policy.

However you describe it, every indication suggests the following: Ken White, even before he was sworn in as Carmel's new mayor Tuesday afternoon, has been doing everything he can to be an accessible politician.

It all starts with his apparent conviction that developing rapport takes a certain amount of time. Some points to consider:

- While still mayor-elect, White met individually for about 90 minutes with each of his future council colleagues.

New Councilman Phil Coniglio said he thought the gesture showed seriousness "about getting things done." Likewise, new Councilwoman Barbara Livingston said the meetings "showed leadership" on White's part.

- The new mayor intends to make good on a campaign promise to make city officials more available to the public. Therefore, he is proposing the city orchestrate regularly scheduled, informal community forums, as often as four or more times a year.

"More the better"

So far, fellow council members appear to be matching his enthusiasm. Again Coniglio: "I think the more of those we have the better."

How the pieces fell into place at Carmel's April 14 elections

By PAUL WOLF

IT'S A compelling question: How did first-time candidate Phil Coniglio manage to draw 142 votes more than his nearest competitor, Barbara Livingston, and pull far more than Mayor-elect Ken White in the other race?

How indeed when Coniglio seemed to have more in common with defeated mayoral candidate Barney Lalolo than with White?

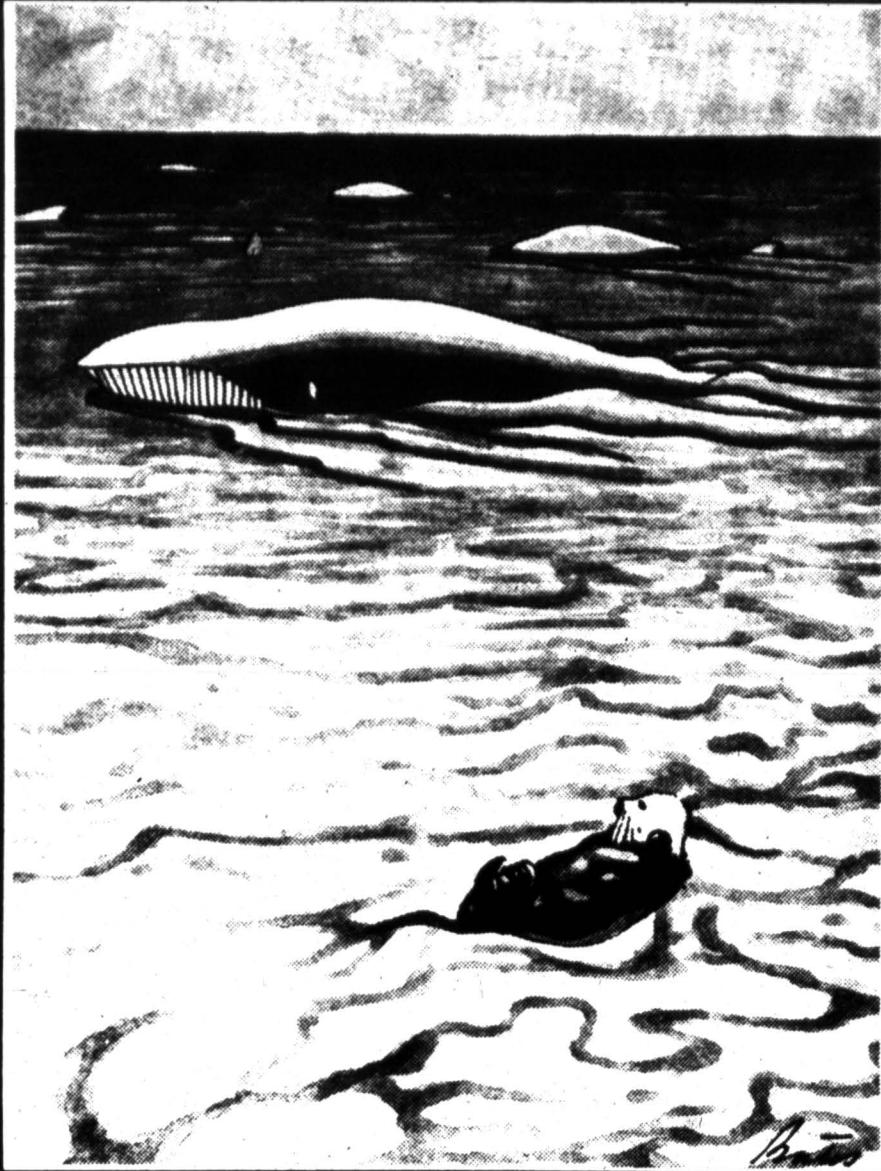

To answer these questions, a closer look at the April 14 results may be in order. And there is always this assumption: Even in the arena of non-partisan politics, events basically occur along party lines.

Two slates

It is pretty much accepted there were two slates, whether they were called such or not: There were White and Livingston on one hand, Lalolo, Don Kremer and Coniglio on the other.

The first slate was perceived as including candidates who best understood the interests of residents; the second had candidates considered more sympathetic to the business community. How true these perceptions were is another subject.

Drop the CRA from your resume

OUR CONGRATULATIONS to the mayoral and city council winners. We think everyone conducted their campaigns in good taste even if some of their supporters—the so-called Carmel Residents Association, to be specific—did not.

We wish Mayor Ken White and new council members Barbara Livingston and Phil Coniglio good luck. We also offer them some unsolicited advice, which is nothing new in politics.

In our interviews prior to The Pine Cone's endorsements for office we asked all candidates if they would be willing to resign any membership they might hold in special interest "pressure" groups. The question was posed in the spirit of achieving harmony and goodwill among all.

Everyone was receptive to the idea except White and Livingston, who are both members of the CRA.

We extend that suggestion once again, this time to all members of the city council who may have a conflict with their affiliations, if not their conscience.

In case it's not clear, we're addressing this matter to White, Livingston and Barbara Brooks. If there is to be an honest effort by the city council to deal with Carmel's future, now is the time to wipe the slate clean.

Let integrity influence your actions, not the ideas of a nonconstructive minority.

Letters to the Editor

Letters to the editor are welcome. Views on all matters are acceptable, following the guidelines of good taste. While there is no limit on length, brevity is encouraged. Letters are subject to editing for style and length. Each letter must contain name, address and signature and must be typed or legibly hand-printed. A phone number is needed for verification only. Anonymous letters, or those with no phone numbers will not be accepted.

Shame on you

Dear Editor:

As a member of the Carmel Residents Association (CRA), I was absolutely ashamed of the issue of the Village Watch that came out just before the election. The blasts against Barney Laiolo and Don Kremer were negative campaigning at their best (or worst) and totally uncalled for.

To their admirable credit, every single candidate for mayor or city council ran on the positive aspects and on their own backgrounds. None of them—Barney Laiolo, Ken White, Phil Coniglio, Don Kremer, Barbara Livingston or John Thompson—ever became involved in negative campaigning. They can hold their heads high. Only the CRA descended to this level.

In fact, in defense of the members of the CRA, it was not they, but some directors of the 12-person board who were responsible for this misguided issue of the Village Watch. In my estimation, these directors owe an apology to the general membership, who, by this issue, have been made to look bad in the eyes of the community.

The CRA has many fine members, and the organization sponsors excellent monthly programs that educate its members and the public on community and area affairs. However, when election time comes around, something goes haywire. It is one thing to endorse candidates, another thing to tear them down.

It is hoped that a bit of soul-searching and sensitivity (as well as sensibility) on the part of these particular directors will result in a renewal of values for this organization, of which I am a part.

Pestus respondus

Dear Editor:

In the fairy-tale world of Hans Christian Lagerholm, the administrator of the hamlet was noblized with the German title of 'von', making him a lord of the land "to whom every knee must bend and every tongue give homage."

But there arose the Pestus Laibus Truthus, who came from the spiritually far-off world called America, where the notion was that administrators are to work for the good of all, not just those approved of by the Burgomistress Tyranus and other nobility.

The Pestus Laibus Truthus allowed the many others who had worked in the hamlet or for the dark lord, Doug Vader von Schmitz (heill!) to speak their knowledge and truth. This caused great Burgomistress Hysterius to arise among the nobles with such gnashing of teeth and wailing in the palaces.

The Burgomistress forthwith nominated Truthus for the Socrates Reward for Civic Improvement and brought out the dreaded Torquemada Stampa and tried to rewrite the history of the land and the awards of magistrates to Truthus. The noble of the library even banned the Truthus Tract for fear of infecting the "good" citizenry with ideas.

Oh, the dreams of tabloid burning they had! But Truthus prevailed again. Truthus bid adieu to the retreating Lord Vader von Schmitz (heill!) and wished him goodspeed. Truthus went on to settle peacefully with White Knight and new Round Table who came into power and went back to surfing in Maui.

The citizens in Lake Oswego? Even this fairy tale cannot say they went on to live happily ever after, but the good citizens of Carmel rejoined America—the Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave—knowing that the Pestus Laibus Truthus or some other Pestus Americanus Citizenus would always be there to hold a mirror to those who hold power and wield it unjustly.

Thank you!

Dear Editor:

I am deeply grateful for the groundswell of support I received for my campaign efforts from the many hundreds of Carmel residents, homeowners and business people.

To the people of Carmel-by-the-Sea, I pledge that while serving on the city council, I will strive to make our community a better place to live.

Community commitment

Dear Editor:

Congratulations to Ken White, our new mayor, and to Barbara Livingston. The great success of Phil Coniglio shows that Carmel-by-the-Sea recognizes his sincere commitment to the community.

The strength of the votes for Barney Laiolo is a clear reminder that his experience and leadership remain valuable to our town. We all need strength and support; I hope that Ken White will seek Laiolo's involvement and input for the good of us all.

Like others, I was distressed to see candidates listing such a large number of non-residents as their supporters. My hope is that Mayor White will do his best to ensure that true Carmelites are fully represented on the various city commissions and committees. Carmel-by-the-Sea has many sensitive, intelligent, concerned residents. They are a noble resource.

Former councilman

Dear Editor:

A recent letter from William H. Penty struck a responsive note—a letter in which he pleads for the city council to perform as five equals working for the benefit of all Carmel.

I should like to take at least partial blame for the way things are today. After recounting a bit of history, I would recommend a solution.

On March 2, 1976, David Hughes, Gunnar Norberg and I were elected to the city council from a field of 12 candidates. As the candidate receiving the most votes, I was subsequently named mayor by the new council. (Holdover council members were Mike Brown and Bernard Anderson.)

For years, Gunnar had argued that the position of mayor should be a separately elected office, but he had never succeeded in gaining council support for such a measure. He wanted badly to serve as mayor of Carmel. He had been on and off the council several times, but had always been in the minority and thus was convinced (rightly so, I believe) that he could never become mayor if the decision were

Cultural commission structures nine-member Sunset Task Force

By JOHN DETRO

UNDER THE gazes of new Mayor Ken White and Robinson Jeffers (a sculpted stone version at room's rear), Carmel Cultural Commission this week advanced the proposed Sunset Center renovation by creating citizen Task Force guidelines — size, sources, specific mandate, residency requirements.

And at the panel's regular monthly meeting in the same facility, Commissioner Robert Infelise came out swinging Monday against statements he said were made during the recent mayoral and council campaigns.

"This is no grandiose plan for Sunset Center's expansion," Infelise said. "I heard that (charge) from a significant source. For the record, the commitment is to make the best 733-seat theater (its exact current size) in existence."

Seating the same

Commission chairperson Linda Anderson added: "Yes, there has been some talk in the community about a 'major expansion.' We can get a full house (at Sunset Theater) and still not have the parking lot filled. We are not going to increase the seating."

"I'm pushing hard," White told The Pine Cone. "It's time that this (renovation) happens."

In early March, city council gave these commissioners and Cultural Director Brian Donoghue permission to invite proposals and find "the best qualified architect or firm with whom to work on a plan for the remodeling and retrofitting of Sunset Center." Donoghue said back then: "You're going to see community involvement like you've never seen before." Thus the Task Force, which will write the official Request for Proposals (RFP).

It was decided Monday without dissent that the body will have nine members: one from city council, two cultural commissioners, one from the Friends of Sunset Center support unit, one from the business community (Carmel Business Association), two from current Sunset "user groups," one "at-large," one American Institute of Architects (AIA) professional who doesn't seek the renovation assignment. Letters inviting nominations will be composed and sent out by Anderson and Donoghue.

Final slate

The commission's executive committee "will prepare the final slate," Anderson said, with "plenty of input by the whole commission." The Task Force will get staff help from Carmel Planning De-

Cultural grants in temporary deep freeze

By JOHN DETRO

FISCAL NERVOUSNESS has led city hall to freeze unspent 1991-92 cultural grant money "as protection against budget revenue shortfall," it was revealed at this week's regular meeting of Carmel Community and Cultural Commission in Sunset Center.

Commissioners greeted the fact without comment, simply accepting the statements within a memo from Acting City Administrator Greg D'Ambrosio and dropping their idea to transfer funds from one grantee to another. The amount at issue was $1,500.

The cultural grants account has exactly that much in it, according to city financial services coordinator Sandi Davenport, after having started the fiscal year with $82,000. The general position stated by D'Ambrosio could be seen as more significant than the dollar amount — unless one were part of Carmel Unified School District's arts outreach.

Notion expires

Commissioners decided at their March session in favor of transferring the money from Monterey Bay Symphony, which cancelled its 1991-92 season, to CUSD. Cultural Director Brian Donoghue had advised that CUSD — "because of its increased activity at Sunset Center" — would see a shortfall in funding remaining programs there. But that D'Ambrosio memo brought the basic notion up short as cultural commissioners moved through

Seaside puts up fight to new regional water supply project

By PAUL WOLF

THE CHAIRMAN of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District water board believes the City of Seaside is putting the Paralta well project in jeopardy by raising eleventh hour environmental worries.

The new water from the well, located in Seaside and scheduled to come on line this summer, is set to allow the lifting of the two-year-old building moratorium.

The moratorium on new water hook-ups affects fast growing cities like Seaside and Sand City, and slow-growing ones like Carmel, Pacific Grove and Monterey.

At a water board meeting Monday, April 20, Seaside city officials argued the chemical treatment process associated with the new regional well in Seaside poses potential health risks.

Meanwhile, in a phone interview with The Carmel Pine Cone Tuesday, a frustrated Chairman Dale Hekhuis suggested the city's bid to get the district to pump less water for the sake of reducing chemicals was injecting politics into water and environmental management.

"They are going to use water as a mitigation (for environmental concerns)," he said.

He argued that if a problem surrounds the use of chemicals, that is what should be the subject of discussion — not pumping volumes or how water is used or divided.

Standing by safety

At the meeting, the county's top health officer and water directors stood by the public safety aspects of the new well, located immediately off of Military Avenue.

Nevertheless, they were put on the defensive by Seaside Mayor Lance McClair and City Manager Charles McNeely, who contend that the transportation, handling and use of two specific chemicals will pose a health risk to their community.

(The chemicals are sodium hydroxide and hydrogen peroxide. They are used to neutralize the harmless, but pungent smell caused by the hydrogen sulfide in the well water.)

Water Wong, director of the Monterey County Department of Environmental Health, characterized the treatment method as reasonably safe and "an accepted method."

Seaside officials worry about citizens coming in contact with either the vapors or the liquid. Wong made an important distinction: "These (chemicals) are hazardous, but these are not hazardous activities."

Currently, there are two Seaside wells that are registered with the county and use a comparable chemical treatment procedure. Earlier this year, directors formulated an allocation for Paralta's 1,000-acre-foot production capacity.

McClair urged directors to reduce the amount of water produced by the Paralta well by about 40 percent to limit the amount of chemicals that would be needed. More specifically, they asked that the well not pump the portion assigned to drought reserve, saying the reserve portion could be permanently stored in the Seaside aquifer, rather than being continuously pumped to the Carmel Valley system.

"They are going to use water as a mitigation."

—Dale Hekhuis

"The City of Seaside can find no justification for treating any amount of water designated for drought reserve purposes, especially when it involves substantially more chemical deliveries and handling which might adversely affect Seaside residents," McClair said.

Director Dick Heuer called it ironic that the city most eager to benefit from the new water supply should now be putting up a fight. "I find it incomprehensible," he said.

Monterey Architect George Ash, speaking during the public comment portion, pointed out another irony. "I'm astonished at the politics of this. I don't know how we are going to be able to get a dam at the river when we can't even (establish) a 1,000-acre-foot well."

Dancing is in Rocky Point's future plans

By SUSAN BECK

DINNER DANCING is definitely on the horizon at the beautiful Rocky Point Restaurant 12 miles south of Carmel on Highway 1.

After $40,000 and three years of delays, the California Coastal Commission agreed to approve an expansion permit based on the recommendation of the Monterey County Planning Department April 15, said Bruce Jones, co-owner along with Don and Joan Miller.

"We are very pleased after all the effort, time and money to be able enter the '90s with a program that will offer services for visitors and locals in the tradition of the past 45 years," said Jones.

As for dancing, rock 'n roll is not what Jones has in mind. "I think probably it will be dinner dancing for banquets and special occasions, or maybe just an evening of dancing. We might just have a piano or perhaps a combo. We plan to try several ways to see what the people would like to do."

The cost and delays are attributed, said Jones, to the required consultant reports such as traffic control, environmental impact, drainage, geological surveys and designs.

The permit allows for an additional 2,000 square feet to include a lounge, gift shop and dancing area.

Uwe Schneider, Rocky Point's general manager said about 28 seats at one end of the restaurant will go into the new lounge area, which will provide window seating for all of the patrons to view the spectacular rocky shore line.

"Rocky Point is such an old establishment, and nothing has changed in 20 years, while other places along the coast have added on. It's nice to see that we have a chance now, too," said Schneider.

There is no deadline for starting the expansion. The owners are going to time their program with the resurgence of tourist activity on the peninsula.

CV moratorium decision on hold until July 2

By SUSAN BECK

MONTEREY COUNTY Board of Supervisors delayed any decisions on a possible building moratorium or implementation of development fees to pay for improvements along Carmel Valley Road until July 2.

"Carmel Valley residents should not be punished for having a conscientious land use plan guaranteeing quality of life, which is also my goal, said Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman following the board's Tuesday, April 21, meeting.

"The traffic on Carmel Valley Road is currently tolerable and acceptable. The Carmel Valley Master Plan alerts the county to level-of-service problems, and states that when it is intolerable to either stop building or make improvements." Said Strasser Kauffman, "It does not say charge the current residents, and I will certainly object to that."

She said that she hears comments

'Carmel Valley residents should not be punished...'

—Strasser Kauffman

such as, "It's everybody's traffic." However, she added, "the current residents are not at fault, and should not be made to bear the brunt of the cost to accommodate additional development."

Strasser Kauffman encouraged the delay to allow all 14 public forums sponsored by the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association to take place.

"The forums offer local residents a chance to participate in the decision making of which road improvements are acceptable to the community and where the financing will come from. It's important to let the process move forward and involve the community as much as possible," said the supervisor.

In addition to the delay, the board decided to exempt any future fees for remodeling projects on single-family residences if the permit process was completed by Feb. 18.

The third forum is scheduled for Monday, April 27 at the Carmel Valley Community Center on Ford Road in the village at 7 p.m.

Results of election reveal how Coniglio won most votes

but these perceptions were the glue that put things together.

(On the other hand, candidate John Thompson fell outside the mainstream, and even admitted he didn't expect to be one of the two highest vote-getters in the four-person council race.)

"Everybody's second vote"

With that background, here is what happened: Lalolo's backers picked Kremer and Coniglio, completing the slate nicely. But backers of White picked Livingston, and then had to choose between Coniglio and Kremer.

Consequently, "Coniglio got everybody's second vote," said J.S. Holliday, president of the Carmel Residents Association.

The CRA overwhelmingly endorsed White and Livingston, both of whom are members. But it had no third person to fit the bill.

One observer who belongs to a group that has clashing views with the CRA said: "They (CRA partisans) knew they were going to lose one seat and they preferred to have Coniglio than Kremer."

There may be reason to believe the CRA expected this dynamic in the election. Consider the CRA's April newsletter, The Village Watch. Leafing through the four-page newspaper, you see articles alternately praising White and Livingston and indicting Lalolo and Kremer. Yet the pieces don't bother with Thompson, and they leave Coniglio alone.

No simple answer

Why Coniglio over Kremer? There may be no simple answer.

Certainly there were appealing aspects of Coniglio's resume — he is a life-long Carmel resident, a part of a well-known family business, the Mediterranean Market, which he said at election night must have given him a certain name- and face-recognition.

Although the CRA didn't endorse him, Holliday said the 37-year-old candidate exuded "positive vibes"; he benefited by being "young, attractive and very charming."

Does any of this imply Coniglio was viewed somehow as a more "safe" candidate than Kramer?

If the election arguably went the CRA's way, the margins weren't so comfortable, and it should take pause, ventured Bob D'Isidoro, chairman of the Carmel Citizens For Good Government.

For starters, Lalolo entered the mayor's race at the eleventh hour for the sake of providing White with some kind of a contest. He wound up doing remarkably well, said D'Isidoro.

That Lalolo should earn a respectable 800 votes next to White's 967 shows

"many people were voting negatively toward White," putting up a protest against the prevailing influence of the CRA. D'Isidoro contended.

Kremer's strong showing of 854 votes may be more proof, D'Isidoro added.

Yet Holliday does not agree with that much of that analysis, throwing out the idea of a protest vote against either White or the CRA. "Barney did what he did by himself," he said. "He has a strong, robust personality, and he attracts a lot of voters."

Meanwhile, D'Isidoro, while sticking to his idea of a protest vote, did speak of Lalolo as having a great sentimental appeal. The 82-year-old former three-term mayor, with his bow ties and old-fashioned adages, may have made many voters feel as comfortable voting for him as he was sure to feel comfortable serving again as Carmel's mayor.

Female lions do over 90 percent of the hunting for the pride.

White's style begins to surface

He's met with acting City Administrator Greg D'Ambrosio to discuss possible formats and procedures. If the idea takes off, the first such community forum will be staged in early summer, White said.

In a phone interview with The Carmel Pine Cone, White explained the underlying philosophy. "We are trying to reach out and hear from people who normally don't get heard. We can do this in a more relaxed, informal setting than at city council meetings. These forums would in no way take the place of public hearings, but would provide an additional way to get public comment."

Public appeal

Ultimately, the question will be whether these meetings will fill a need until now unmet, and whether the events will appeal to the public as well as the city officials seeking public input.

• White's style in dealing with the media has reflected his resolve to show himself to be an accessible public official.

As one of numerous examples, when White was telephoned by a reporter during his campaign period to hear his opinions on what to do with Rio Park, White insisted the best way to talk about Rio Park is at Rio Park.

He picked up the reporter, and made sure to take a few detours to controversial projects, past and present, along the way. Naturally, he dished out opinions throughout the drive. (How would it be otherwise for a candidate?)

After the trip was over, White said, "If I'm elected mayor, this is the way I want to do things."

Heading for a collision course

larger houses on larger lots, but I believe it is important to control the size of construction on small lots," she said.

When it comes to stimulating the business sector, Livingston doesn't favor doing away with the resident-serving business district. A better plan, she believes, is discouraging one-hour tour buses and encouraging the half-day or full-day stoppers. "On those one-hour buses, I'm afraid they don't spend a nickel in this town."

Unlike Coniglio, she favors the third, more restrictive commercial zone in the downtown because it creates the conditions for lower rents, thus providing the struggling mom-and-pop businesses a chance to survive in Carmel.

Perot booth

THE ROSS Perot for President Petition Committee will have tables in front of Pacific Grove Post Office during the Good Old Days celebration this weekend.

That word comes from Madeline and Dall Harper along with Vicki Derrough, the committee's area coordinators.

The sites will offer literature, bumper stickers, pins, T-shirts, volunteer signup sheets and conversations about the candidate. The group will circulate petitions through Aug. 7 in an effort to put Perot on California's presidential election ballot this year.

Panetta to speak

CONGRESSMAN LEON Panetta will be the guest speaker Saturday, April 25, at the Democratic Women's Club of Monterey County meeting.

The meeting is scheduled for 2 p.m. at the Pebble Beach home of Shirley Prussin. Call 373-5432 for further information, or Lee Hulquist at 384-0508.

Richard Gann talk

MONTEREY PENINSULA Taxpayers Association will welcome Richard Gann, president of Paul Gann's Citizens Committee, as speaker at a luncheon at noon Wednesday, April 29, at Rancho Canada Golf Course.

Anyone wishing to attend the event was invited to call Bob Martin (375-2424) or Dick Donnegan (649-6400) for more information.

partment and Sunset Center administration.

The Pine Cone was asked to help make "an important point" — those interested in the at-large and architect slots should contact Donoghue at Sunset Center and request Task Force applications. Anderson: "The Task Force itself will be managing this (RFP) process...The more people communicate, the better off we will be down the line."

Commissioner David Benjamin requested decisions on residency — within Carmel's "one square mile" as opposed to Carmel's "sphere of influence." At least five of the nine members should be "one square mile," it was agreed, and seven out of nine "sphere of influence."

Commissioners voted that the Task Force present a first-draft RFP after four months and get another two months for finalization. "The Task Force members will select their own chair(person)," Anderson said, "and follow the entire process even after we find an architect."

Monthly updates

After some discussion, the cultural panel decided that the group should officially be called the Sunset Center Renovation/RFP Task Force. "General requisites" included monthly Task Force updates to the commission.

Over the long run, commissioners will insist that the project architect be an AIA member — and that "the architectural look" of Sunset Center be maintained.

"I can see us adding (Task Force) people throughout this process," Anderson said. "What we start with here might be called a steering committee."

Unexpended cultural funds frozen to avoid revenue shortfall

their April agenda on Monday afternoon and early evening.

"The intent of the recommendation is commendable and well deserving of city support," D'Ambrosio wrote. "However, the remaining balance of unexpended funds in this account have been frozen as protection against budget revenue shortfall. Revenue receipts continue to be anemic...indications are that revenues are behind our budget estimates...my recommendation to the city council will be to maintain the freeze on any remaining fund balance in the grants account."

The freeze, Davenport said, was continued by D'Ambrosio after former City Administrator Doug Schmitz instituted it. City council always receives word when such steps are taken, she added.

Drop in sales tax

Latest blow to Carmel's fiscal health was a drop in sales tax revenue for March — down by about $106,000 from the March 1991 total.

"We haven't been able to come up with any sound reason for this," Davenport said last week after she had been assured by the State Board of Equalization that the figure indeed was correct.

Of the total $8.13 million budget, sales taxes contribute 23 percent, second only to the hospitality levy's contribution (32 percent).

Carmel Bay Taxi

TOO MANY Manhattan cabbies act as though they've seen too many movies about surly Manhattan cabbies and poison-belching cabs.

The exact opposite of such grisly portraits seems to have emerged in this immediate area.

As described by owner Joseph Thomas, the new Carmel Bay Taxi puts forth polite and comfy service while opposing the twin urban blights of congestion and pollution.

"With offices at 26344 Carmel Rancho Lane," Thomas says, "we cover Carmel, Pacific Grove, Pebble Beach, Carmel Valley, Big Sur. Our theme: upscale transportation at competitive rates."

Carmel Bay Taxi, he adds, comes somewhere between a limousine and a traditional cab. "We comfortably can carry up to four persons and their luggage. We like to be scheduled as far in advance as possible (624-5180), but we're usually never more than 20 minutes away."

Carmel Bay Taxi requires seat belt use and disallows smoking. "We drive with lights on for maximum safety," Joseph says — "a step that's mandatory in parts of Europe."

And: "We're something more than an upscale alternative. By offering taxis, shuttles and mini-limos, we can help reduce the number of individual auto trips. We think an organized approach to transportation can reduce congestion and pollution significantly."

Right now, Carmel Bay Taxi seeks development of the market's high end — resort trade, mini-tours, longer trips such as to airports. Delivery services for businesses also are available.

"By mid-April," Thomas says, "we will have cars stationed in Pacific Grove and Carmel Valley. A third car will offer shuttle services from Carmel Valley Village to Monterey Transit Plaza with a couple of stops in between. If someone calls, we're able to pick up fares originating in Monterey. What else? Presently there's a senior and handicapped discount."

NEW SERVICE—Joseph Thomas of Carmel Bay Taxi says safety and environmental considerations help guide the transportation firm.

Eventually, he finishes, the company wants to introduce "electric vehicles and 'green fuel' vehicles to Carmel and Pacific Grove. Current auto technology is 100 years old; it's time we moved transportation into the 21st Century."

THE MARCH HARE, an Aveda concept salon, announces support for the Big Sur International Marathon Walk on Sunday, April 26.

This event will be combined with Aveda's Earth Day as The March Hare welcomes donations to Give to the Earth Foundation. Checks made out to the foundation may be mailed to the business at PO Box 125, Carmel 93921.

Aveda's Walk for Beauty, its third annual Earth Day effort, hopes to add to the $250,000 raised for environmental causes over the last two years. Aveda makes and markets hair, skin, beauty and environmental products made from pure flower and plant essences.

The non-profit foundation pledges that 100 percent of this year's tax-deductible donations will benefit Clear Water Action, Habitat for Humanity, Humane Society, International Alliance for Sustainable Agriculture, Pediatric AIDS Foundation, National Toxics Campaign.

David Fink has been appointed general manager of Highlands Inn, a 142-room Mobil four-star, AAA four-diamond property located on the Carmel Highlands coast.

A graduate of Roanoke College in Virginia, Fink joined the hotel management team in 1984. Subsequently, he was promoted to food and beverage director, followed by a two-and-a-half-year position as executive assistant general manager. He has also consulted for the Inn's management company, Coastal Hotel Group, at their other properties in the United States.

A founding member of the Monterey Peninsula Chapter of the American Institute of Wine and Food, Fink is also an active member of the Monterey County Hospitality Association and serves on the advisory board of several nonprofit organizations.

SPCA needs towels, blankets, paper

The SPCA of Monterey County, needs towels, sheets, blankets, pillowcases and newspaper for use in the animal shelter and wildlife center.

Blankets are used as comforters for the many puppies who are brought into the shelter.

The greatest demand is for clean towels in both the shelter and especially the wildlife center.

Newspapers are used in the cat litter pans.

Donated items can be delivered to The SPCA of Monterey County animal shelter, 1002 Monterey Salinas Highway 68 (five miles east of the Monterey Peninsula Airport), any day of the week between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. If the donor has a significant quantity and cannot deliver the items, arrangements can be made to pick them up.

Letters

left in the hands of the council members.

Because of his long devotion to Carmel-by-the-Sea, I was sympathetic with Gunnar's desire to serve as mayor and believed that he deserved a shot at the office. (It should be said that while Gunnar and I agreed on most of the ultimate goals for Carmel, we seldom agreed on how to reach any one of them.)

After being selected mayor, I advised the council that I was in favor of making the office of mayor an elective position. After discussion, it was agreed that the proposition would be placed on a future ballot. This was subsequently done. The voters decided to have an elected mayor, and it has been so for some 16 years now.

Clearly, in retrospect, it was a bad idea. Regardless of how the mayor is selected in a general-law city such as Carmel, that person has no more legal authority than any other member of the council. Yet, somehow, psychologically, the opposite has proven true, and recent mayors from Gunnar and Char through Clint and Jean have all wielded power far in excess of their legal authority.

The time has come for a change. Rather than simply asking for council cooperation, as Mr. Pentry has done, I would urge that petitions be drawn up and circulated to place the matter on a future ballot, so that voters in the village may return the council to its original status as a five-person selective body, with one person chosen from within that body to serve as its chairman (mayor).

Carmel experiencing rash of bicycle thefts

By PAUL WOLF

CARMEL HAS experienced a rash of bicycle thefts — four in two-and-a-half weeks. And the word is: Be sure to lock up.

"These were all unsecured, expensive mountain bikes," Carmel Sgt. Dan Clark said of the four.

He said they range in value from $300 to $800. "These incidents were preventable," Clark stressed.

Consider the last of these incidents. A couple, tourists from Italy, left their bicycles on the sidewalk, on San Carlos south of Ocean Avenue. Their locks remained uselessly coiled around their seats. Together, their bicycles were worth $400.

So far, police have little to go on, save for the fact that "a group of several teenage males were seen around the bikes at the time," said Clark.

Solving mystery

In other matters, a long-time employee of a Carmel grocery was arrested for swiping $100 from her boss's desk, according to Carmel police. And it was a standard investigative technique that helped solve the mystery.

A 44-year-old bookkeeper for Nielsen's Bros. Market confessed to stealing $100 and is scheduled to appear in court May 6 on the charge of embezzlement, according to Carmel Sgt. Dan Clark.

Clark said the business owner had reported that a thick stack of dollar bills, kept in a desk drawer, was getting thinner. Someone had been raiding the secret fund over a period of about a month.

While he didn't want to let go of all his trade secrets, Clark did explain how police caught the suspect. The bills were treated with "chemicals that stain the hands."

So, subsequently, the woman was found with marked up fingers, and a confession was soon forthcoming.

Carmel Valley Outlook

CV Chamber ensures substance for members

Quo Vadis
By Bob Infelise, President

RECENTLY, THE Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors participated in a seminar-retreat to take a hard look at its raison d'être.

The focus of the retreat was to determine what future directions the chamber should take in order to ensure that the membership would have a "substantive" rationale for belonging to the chamber.

As was said by many, "It's nice to come to the social functions and other get-togethers, but what has the chamber done for my bottom line?"

Materialistic as this sounds, it became a motivational tool, as the retreat began to unfold. Meetings began with a presentation by Dave Bouchard, executive director of the Gilroy Chamber of Commerce. He traced the history of the Gilroy Garlic Festival and the successful relationship the Gilroy chamber has developed with the association.

Chamber's purpose

Given this success model, the Carmel Valley chamber went to work and developed an action plan, beginning with the following mission statement:

"The purpose of the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce is to service the small business community, preserve the balance of our unique environment, and encourage and promote community activity."

You will note that this statement adopts a more global attitude toward the community, as opposed to a narrow "bottom-line" orientation.

This statement of purpose was adopted by business people who show a sensitivity to the community at large and understand that as friends and neighbors, they first live together and then do business together.

As a result of this focus, the chamber has developed plans to accomplish the following:

BOB INFELISE, president of the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce, is dedicated to service.

- * Focus on successful activities that enhance the entire community, such as participation in all Carmel Valley events, including Ranchers Days, Carmel Valley Fiesta, Santa's Fly-in, A Village Affair, Fireman's Ball, Community Center Fund Raisers, etc.

- * Continue to develop special activities, such as the member mixers, other member social events, fund raising and the special-interest luncheons.

- * Continue to enhance the chamber's utilization of Transient Occupancy Tax (TOT) funds to promote Carmel Valley business.

- * Provide better communication to all members, including a newsletter, mailing labels and recognition of new businesses in the area.

- * Explore a chamber "point of view" for issues such as pending legislation, development activities, education, etc.

- * Make aggressive efforts to identify and provide benefit programs for all chamber members, such as health-benefit programs for employees, training sessions and other areas that affect employer-employee relations.

The chamber is currently studying, with interest, the health plan that the Carmel Unified School District is developing.

As yet, the chamber is an interested observer. The benefits, if any, to members have not been assessed, but the potential benefits are sufficient to warrant observations.

The TOT funds have also been an area of interest for the chamber. These funds are received each year to promote the hosteries in the area. In promoting them, other retail businesses benefit. The chamber is exploring the possibility of getting an increase in the grant in order to expand the promotional program.

Future activities

Activities in the near future include the following:

April 22 — Member-guest mixer at Evans Residential Home Care.

April 24 — Member-guest luncheon with speaker Karin Strasser Kauffman, county board of supervisors, at Rancho Canada Golf Club.

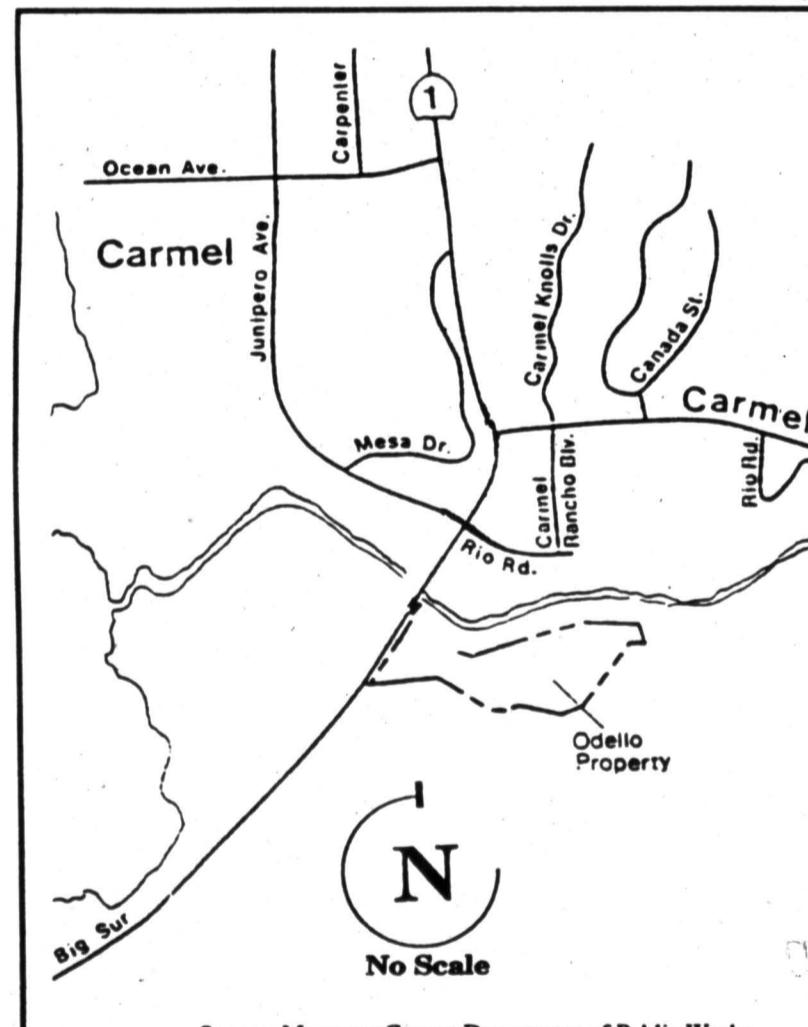

May 20 — Member-guest mixer at First National Bank, at the mouth of the valley.

May 27 — Member-guest luncheon with speaker Gen. James Moore, Fort Ord Task Force, at Quail Lodge.

June 7 — Member-guest mixer at Mid Valley Shopping Center. (Note: This will be a progressive "treasure hunt," where practically all the businesses in the center will be provided an opportunity to interact with members and guests.)

June 9 — Member-guest luncheon with speaker Dean Flippo, district attorney, at Los Laureles Lodge.

The members of the board of the chamber are: Patricia Porter-Hoover, first vice president; Michele Peerson, second vice president; Don Lamar, secretary; Don Condren, treasurer; Vivian Miller, past president; Ann Olivier, executive director; and directors Gary Carmichael, Glen Littlejohn, Linda Horning, Kathryn Hoshor, Rosie McHale, Don Payne and Randy Randazzo.

Ingress and egress is Carmel Valley Road's real dilemma

By SUSAN BECK

THREE LANEING Carmel Valley Road may be the solution to the valley's real traffic problem, which is getting on the road in the first place.

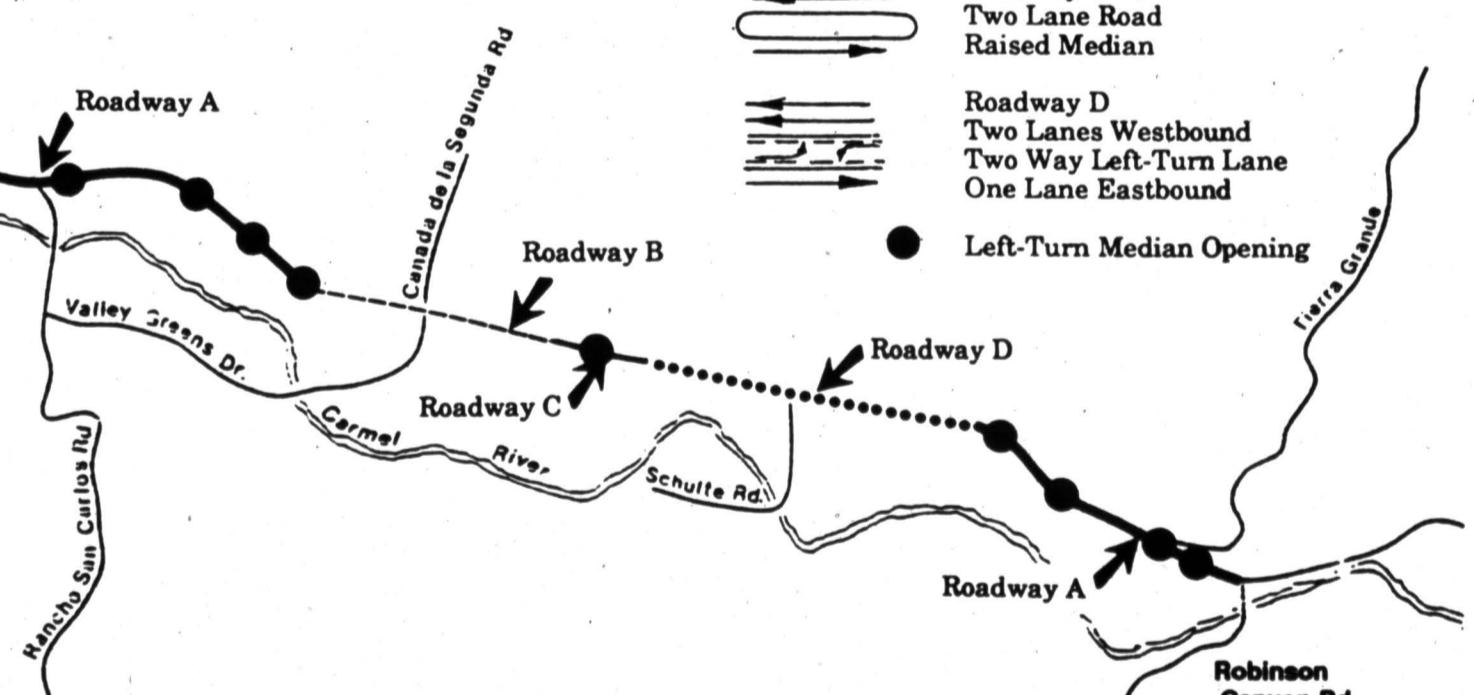

"The biggest problem not being addressed is getting on and off the road safely," said Ileene Crane-Franks, Carmel Valley Property Owners Association (CVPOA) board member.

The association is sponsoring a series of public forums specifically designed to determine what local residents want to do to relieve traffic congestion in the valley.

Crane-Franks seemed to think that the consensus of opinion from the first forum held April 15 at the Mid Carmel Valley Fire Department indicates that people are less concerned about the flow of traffic than safe access from private driveways and side roads.

"The whole traffic issue on Carmel Valley Road is tied into the Carmel Valley Master Plan, which requires a certain level of service from one section to another," said Crane-Franks. "The solutions only address getting from A to B, not ingress and egress access."

George Divine, senior civil engineer for county public works, attended the forums to provide technical advice.

"I've been really happy with the approach of the people in Carmel Valley. They don't come in with preconceived ideas," said Divine. "The road has a significant number of private driveways, and we are trying to address access to Carmel Valley Road in our design plan. Three lanes instead of the original four-laning project would accommodate access needs."

Roger Williams, CVPOA board member, is conducting the forums. He said that having a representative from county public works at the forums is absolutely necessary.

He commended Gerald Gromko, director of county public works, and Divine for their "excellent cooperation."

At each forum questionnaires are passed out to obtain an "unbiased" opinion about Carmel Valley Road, said Williams. The results of 48 questionnaires from the

With the money received, the youth center will be able to present Music In The Park, Santa's Fly-In, swimming, and a myriad of other activities throughout the year. Tickets may be purchased at the door or by calling 659-3983.

Ringers' General Store in Cachagua will open in May

DALE AND Anne Ringer are the new owners of The Pack Station on Cachagua Road.

The former bar-general store has been closed for some time, but will again open in May as a convenience store.

The Ringers, who have lived in Cachagua for three years, hope to have in addition to groceries, fresh vegetables, hay and feed, miscellaneous hardware supplies, and some deli items.

"There will be no bar or restaurant," he said, "but there is a need here for a general store. We bought the store because we are always looking for an adventure, and it's going to be one."

The new store is in the process of renovation. The existing building is 500 square feet and will be expanded to 1,000 square feet.

The new owners are definitely planning to offer competitive prices based on market items in the village.

CV Road dilemma

two of 14 forums favor no further building moratoriums in the valley and passing and turning lanes especially past Schulte Road to Los Laureles Grade.

Also, funding for the road improvements should come from either a bond issue or special benefit assessment, and half of the people did not think they had enough information about Canada de la Segunda to support or oppose it.

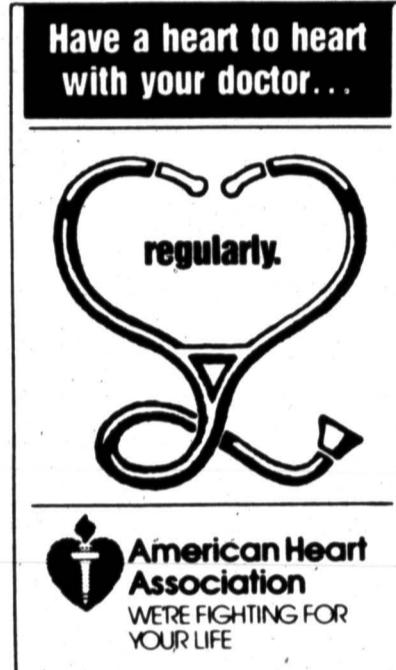

"These statistics are for example only and even though they are accurately compiled, they are not necessarily indicative of any trend," said Williams. "It's just too early. The true value will be after all of the forums are completed, which will be in July."

Congratulations to Carmel Valley championship riders

NICOLE ROHAN, Suzi Clark, and Carol Ahnlund, all from Carmel Valley are high-point and reserve champions in a series of horse shows, which began last October.

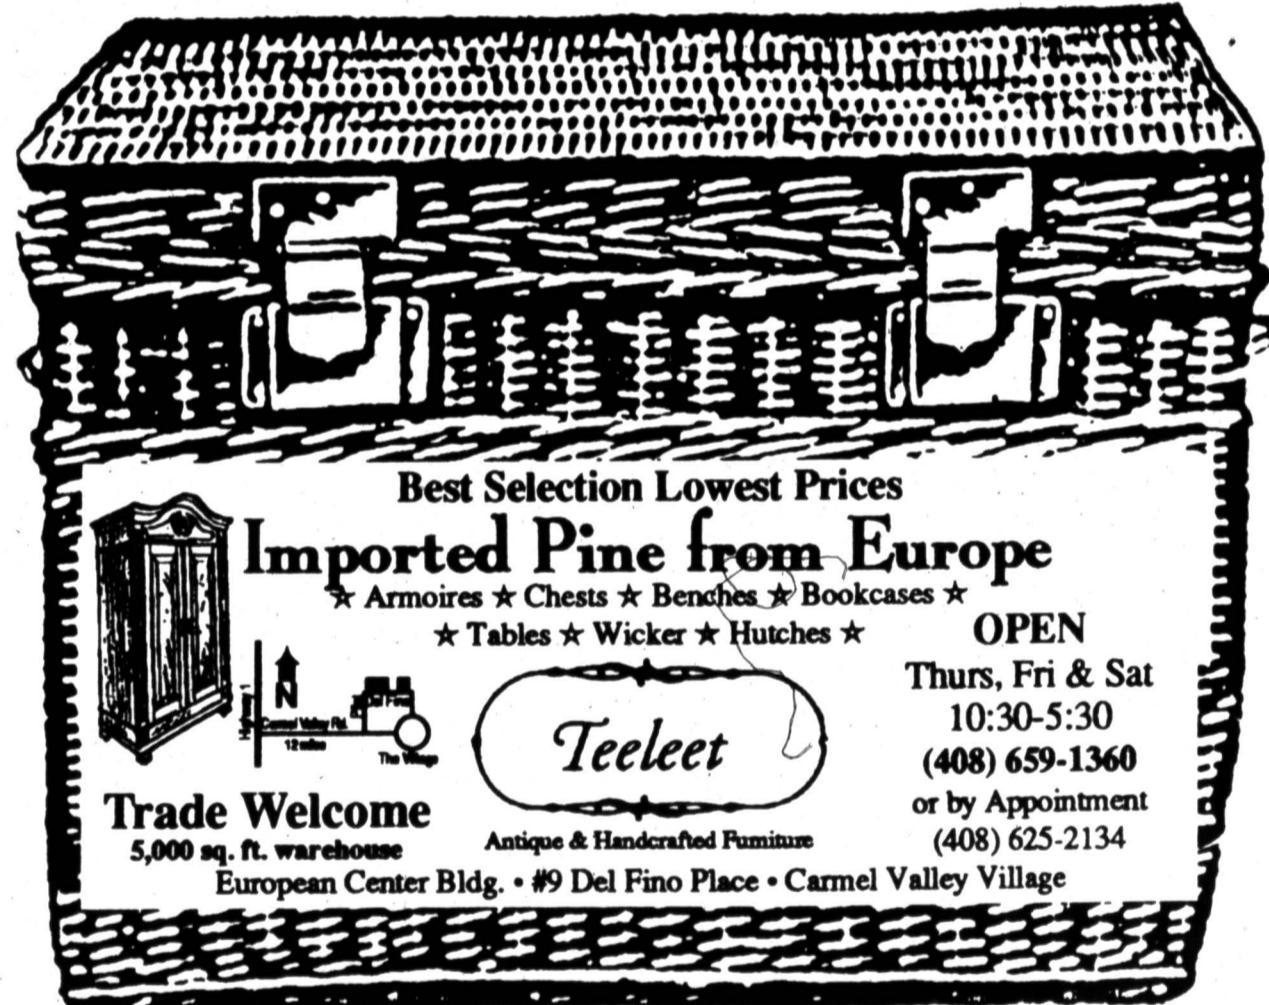

Awards were presented April 5 at the Pebble Beach Equestrian Center, Pebble Beach Schooling Show Series sponsored by The Tack Box.

Rohan, riding Midnight Express is a reserve champion in the Pony Hunters division. Clark rode George Burns and won a high-point award in the Working Hunters division. Ahnlund is also a high-point champion in the Green Horse division. She rode Private Eye.

Carmel's conscience

BARNEY LAILOLO entered the Carmel-By-The-Sea mayoral race, as he put it, "to keep everyone honest and give people a choice."

Laiolo, a three-term former mayor, retired from active politics 10 years ago, but felt a familiar pang of civic duty when no one stepped up to challenge the only candidate for Carmel's highest office, even in a highly charged political climate.

He campaigned the same way he had the three times he won the mayor's seat before. Low key, low budget. A typical Laiolo campaign was an afternoon spent in front of the post office, shaking hands and passing out flyers.

His desire to give Carmelites a choice in what would have otherwise been an uncontested election didn't stop him from wanting the job. The sweet smell of victory blew his way several times during the weeks preceding the election. The twinkle in his eye and the red, white and blue string tie he wore gave testimony to his love for public service and desire to see Carmel do right by itself.

He said he would run a low profile campaign. He also said he would keep it clean if the other guy did. He held to both promises and even though he emerged the loser by a slim margin of 167 votes, Laiolo won big for the village he has called home for nearly 50 years.

What did Barney win if he lost the election? He won the hearts of people who had forgotten how to stand up and speak their conscience even if their opinion was not in vogue. He won the right to give people a choice, and in doing so, reawakened a citizenry dulled by meaningless contention.

Among those in the capacity crowd at City Hall on election night were Jim Holliday of the Carmel Residents Association who told Barney he respected him for his ambition. Ed Jordan of the Planning Commission asked if Barney would continue to give them the benefit of his presence at future meetings. Carmel council woman Barbara Brooks said the close race was a tribute to Laiolo.

As the final votes were tallied and Ken White was declared the next mayor, Barney's eyes glistened and he turned to his friends and said, "I made a race out of it didn't I?"

A few minutes later he lit up his pipe and was back to his old form, expounding on politics. He and his wife Elinor were among the last ones to leave City Hall. As they walked hand in hand into the quiet, dark night, the smoke from Barney's pipe trailing over his shoulder, it didn't matter whether he had won or lost because he had done something far more important. He won back Carmel's conscience.

PEEPS

A group of Doubletree employees on an educational scavenger hunt struck pay dirt when they stumbled into Doc Rickett's Lab on Cannery Row to find Bruce Ariss sitting there like he knew they were coming. Once they were told who he was they fired historical questions at him.

"Name two canneries."

"Hovden and Del Mar."

"What forms the shape of a cypress tree?"

"You're kidding? Wind of course!"

Maybe there should be a required class for all new hospitality employees on the peninsula. Local History 101.

Incidentally, the generous donations to the Bruce Ariss building fund have nearly run out and Bruce, Jean and family are still two months from completing their house. Plumbing, wiring and sheet rock remain to be done. If you would like to help the Ariss family call Bruce at 372-8934.

To have and to win

WELL, THE bickering is over. So is the full moon in Libra; it's time to listen and be serious about our politics. Ah, yes, April 14, a day to remember. Did you know it was the 80th anniversary of the sinking of the Titanic? Just a little trivia.

I appreciate all the candidates giving me their birth information over the phone last week, especially Phil Coniglio, who even volunteered not only his birthday, but time and place of birth in the bio-info published in the Sun.

Phil for Mayor

I had a chart run off at Pilgrim's Way for Phil. Had he run for Mayor of Carmel, he would have won. He has an Aquarian career house (10th) and a Taurus Moon. (Remember what I wrote a few issues back about Taurus and Mayor Daly of Chicago?) Phil also has Gemini Rising and his Sun is barely in Leo, skating the edge of Cancer, which rules among other things, restaurants. Believe it or not, his chart is identical in house cusps to Julia Child, and he sure knows his way around the kitchen.

Warm, friendly and popular, that's Phil, who earns his well-deserved popularity because of his "true" emotional concern for others. He wants the best in life, not just for himself but for this town. With the skill of Gemini and the determination of Leo, he can get what he wants.

Move over Clint; I've got a NEW hero. I like Phil. He will prove to be the most important person in Carmel and justifiably so. He strives for harmony among friends and neighbors. It would take a King Kong on the Empire State Building to diminish his warmth and outgoingness.

Phil relies strongly on the love of his family for inner support. Willing to work hard with all the pizazz of Leo, he needs to take his B-complex vitamins in mega-doses so that his Gemini nerves don't wear him out. The FORCE be with you.

A Star Wars kind of man is what Phil Coniglio is all about. His personality will carry him far and he has unlimited creative ability, especially in "dexterity." Watch for his unique approach to politics and meetings (that unpredictable Aquarian 10th house), and drama of Leo come into play. I plan to attend meetings; they will be better than a movie!

Not only is Phil a superb cook (that's one way he makes love), but he is able to write and talk about it (cooking that is). Are you going to write a book, Phil? Gemini Rising, and with a second house Sun, you can't miss. This man has had lots and lots of discipline (genetically) from his father and knows how to use money and property constructively, in ways beneficial to "our town," and not for his personal satisfaction.

His second house gives us an important clue to the way he will acquire and utilize money. We can expect his full cooperation in the theater arts in Carmel (like support for Forest Theatre — Marcia will be happy to hear that), and bringing more romance to town and getting us all closer on a social level. He's always had a strong will to attain financial independence and is not into material self-aggrandizement.

With a Capricorn North Node (karma in this life), he is destined for "leadership in politics." I could say more, but I think you all "get my drift." Welcome Phil. We're lucky to have you.

No-nonsense Barbara

Then, we have no-nonsense Capricorn Barbara Livingston with a bubbly Leo moon. She may borrow Clint's bag of frozen squirrels (remember the article on What Makes A Great Mayor?), to keep the committee in line, making both their day and night.

With T. Neptune conjunct her Mercury at present, Barbara is highly intuitive, bordering on psychic, so no one is going to pull any fast ones on her. Don't use logic Barbara, let your psychic abilities run full tilt. It's not only reliable but deadly accurate. Follow your gut. It will help you keep the truth and untruth sorted out.

You'll need "peace and quiet" each day; in between your duties you could give Rosemary Rogers a run for her money and write a successful novel this year!

I like your Moon-Saturn trine, Barbara. You don't abandon people or animals, both your emotions and reasoning is balanced and you have a strong sense of responsibility and good organizational abilities, which can be put to excellent use. You will "teach" us a lot and can project the warmth and affection for others in this town. We will all find your enthusiasm for life awe-inspiring. You're very, very creative, and as my father used to say, "to make something with lots of money, that's easy . . . but to make something out of nothing . . . now that is something." That's Barbara Livingston. I voted for you; welcome!

Building immunity

And, last but not least, we have our "new" mayor, Ken White. I'll be sure to send you a copy of What Makes A Great Mayor, in case you missed it in Pine Cone's March 12 issue.

With three planets in Virgo (Sun, Venus and Neptune), your mission or calling is to build up an immunity to almost everything. You have to understand Ken, that Virgo's function is indeed "to serve" and that the mind (ruled by Virgo) of man is a good servant but sometimes a bad master. Virgo's have to learn that the body must serve the mind and ultimately the mind must serve the spirit.

Meticulous in your work, I see you paying lots of attention to detail and doing things carefully and efficiently. It is your mission to bring order out of confusion and chaos. We expect you to go to great lengths to help others find employment, but only for those who are "willing to work."

I feel that you're too practical and intelligent to allow anyone to make a "martyr" of you. When the demands are made on you and they become excessive and unreasonable, you will say NO, with conviction.

I suspect you're efficient and that your performance of duty will be brilliant. You're in a new 12-year Jupiter cycle, take care of your health. Virgo's world is "microscopic analysis," so try not to get too bogged down in details to the extent of becoming blind to major, significant issues, as in not seeing the forest for the trees. Try to resist criticism; it is not a replacement for heavenly, or divine, wisdom.

Since Virgo rules health, a wise man does not exhaust his body energies by overdosing on worry and overwork, foolish fears and apprehensions. A disciplined mind will give you marvelous resistance to illness, and you can end up as a "healing agent" for this lovely town of ours.

I do individual counseling and specialize in financial issues, lifestyle and career changes. Call me at 624-2881. I offer sound guidelines in market speculation, relationship speculation, finance and investment. You can also write to me with questions for publication by sending question, male/female, where you're from and initials, along with month-day-and-year of birth. See you all next week!

Yesterday & Today

Carmel Architectural & Historic Survey

A smashing success

WHAT BETTER way to unify our community than in appreciation of our history, our buildings, and our people?

Over 200 people turned out on Sunday, April 12, to make the First Annual Tour of Carmel's Historic Inns a smashing success. Innkeeper, docent, and tour-goer alike were happy to participate in this successful fund-raising event to benefit the Carmel Architectural and Historic Survey.

Attendees came from all over the Monterey Peninsula, plus a contingent from the San Jose and San Francisco Bay Areas, and a large number of visitors who stated that they felt very lucky to have chosen this particular weekend to visit Carmel! Not only did they get to see the Carmel of today, several visitors said, but they were able to take advantage of this wonderful opportunity to see a part of Carmel's history during this special tour.

Volunteer docents, who are members of the Carmel Architectural and Historic Survey, had researched the various inns, using City Hall property files, old copies of the Carmel Pine Cone and Monterey County Herald, current and past owners, and other avenues of research. Their results were assembled into the tour brochure, and matched with modern-day photographs taken by volunteer Delores Kaller.

From The General Store, tour guests visited the eight small historic inns in their order of preference. The inns were the Colonial Terrace, Happy Landing, Holiday House, Lamplighter, Sandpiper, Stonehouse, Sundial, and Tally Ho. All the inns served refreshments, in case there was a need for last-minute energy boosts to climb stairs!

Visitor rooms on view too

In addition to the public rooms, many visitor rooms were available for viewing. There were so many tempting options! Each inn had its own charm, its own style, and the friendly atmosphere of the tour participants made the afternoon particularly delightful.

At the Happy Landing, Taffy Corcoran regaled listeners with tales of Carmel in the old days, when she lived next door, and frequently helped her friend Velma Craig run the inn. Taffy lives in a Pacific Grove nursing home now, and her presence was truly a treat for all.

The former "Wit's End" home of Jimmy Hatlo, now the Tally Ho Inn, was honored by the participation of Mrs. Eleanor (Hatlo) Lusignan and son Jim Hatlo. Their memories of their early home added an interesting perspective to the tour, and the views from Jimmy Hatlo's treetop studio were magnificent.

Authors sign books

Authors signed their books at the inns, as well. The Colonial Terrace was a hive of activity, with Donald Clark, assisted by historians Michael Clark and Kurt Loesch, discussing his recent landmark work Monterey County Place Names. Nearby, in the unusual curved building which houses the office, was historian/photographer Pat Hathaway, whose "California Views" collec-which combines photography, art and gardening into one delicious volume. Her anecdotes about life in Giverny add an intriguing dimension to the famous and familiar paintings of that garden.

Yesterday & Today

Architectural historian Sara Boutelle, author of the definitive biography Julia Morgan, chatted with tour guests at the Stonehouse. Her gorgeous book, suitable for both the coffee table and the reference library, was the perfect tour souvenir for numerous happy participants.

Able representative

This entirely enjoyable day ended with the raffle prize drawings in the Stonehouse's cozy living room, next to a crackling fire: Hunter Bungay won the bouquet from Caspia Flowers, dinner at Anton & Michel, and a night at the historic Cypress Inn; Carolyn Rice won the champagne brunch at the historic Pine Inn, the Derek Rayne gift certificate and limousine ride (by Hunter Bungay's Celebrity Limousine!).

All raffle prizes were donated in support of the Carmel Architectural and Historic Survey, thanks to Toni Jepson, executive director of the Carmel Business Association.

The survey is pleased to have achieved this success with the help of the participating innkeepers and the CBA, because this type of event is a fun and interesting way of bringing together local residents, business owners and visitors!

The Stonehouse's innkeeper, Barbara Cooke, summed it all up at the end of the day. "We are absolutely thrilled with the tour, especially with the chance for locals to see inside the inn, which many had never seen before. The Surveyors created enormous amounts of enthusiasm and fun; the Surveyors created the atmosphere which was the reason for the tour's success."

Tour brochures are available at $1 each (to benefit the survey) at the Community Planning Department, City Hall.

The moderator is new anchor Gary Lindsey from KMST and the panelists are Judges of the Municipal and Superior Court of Monterey County.

PG COUNCIL MEMBER TO ADDRESS CRA

"Saving Our Precious Coastal Towns" will be the subject when Bud Nunn, Pacific Grove Councilman, addresses the Carmel Residents Association on Thursday, April 23, at the Vista Lobos Park meeting room, Junipero and Third, in Carmel.

ASIAN-AMERICAN PHILANTHROPIC FUNDING

Asian-American private and corporate foundations are among the fastest growing source of philanthropic funding, according to Dr. Robert Lee, author of the Guide to Chinese American Philanthropy and Charitable Giving Patterns.

"The Emergency of Asian American Affluence and Philanthropic Resources" is the topic at a workshop given by Dr. Robert Lee for the Development Executives Network (DEN) on Friday, April 24 from 11:45 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, Windjammer Room, 1 Old Golf Course Road, Monterey.

Lee will present information that will dispel myths, correct caricatures and document traditional and new giving practices at a time of changing demographics, heightened ethnic diversity, Pacific Rim awareness and growing affluence among Asian Americans.

According to Lee, he estimates that 130 Chinese-American private foundations in the U.S. hold combined assets of $100 million, up from $65 million in 1988 (a year in which they gave $4.9 million in grants) — figures which Lee says have grown considerably since that time. For the 30 Japanese American private foundations, the figures for 1988 are $20.9 million in assets and $1.4 million in grants.

The workshop will include lunch; cost is $17 for members and $20 for non-members. Reservations are necessary. Call Christina Feceki at 648-4915. Space is limited.

ADOBE TOUR SET FOR APRIL 25

The clock will be turned back more than 100 years on April 25, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., for the 45th annual Adobe Tour, with the theme this year, "Sharing Our Heritage." Stroll through the historic adobes of Old Monterey; explore Monterey's past through its many and diverse historical buildings and gardens.

The buildings are beautifully restored and are furnished with early artifacts and heirlooms. Guides in period costume will be present to talk about the history of the buildings and answer questions.

Included in the ticket price is a very elegant and traditional tea held from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Casa Serrano. Local dignitaries serve the tea from sterling silver tea urns. The "Adobe Tour Tea" mixture is not only served but also sold in small jars.

Also included in the admission price is a baker's breakfast at Pacific House from 9 to 10 a.m., hosted by the Doubletree Hotel.

Admission is $15 for adults; $10 for students and military in uniform; no charge for children under 12 if accompanied by an adult.

For advance ticket information contact Monterey History and Art Association, Box 805, Monterey, California 93940 or call 372-2608. Tickets will be available for sale at many of the adobes on the day of the tour. Maps will be provided.

S.O.S.

ONCE AGAIN, I'm appealing to you, my wonderful readers, to consider opening your hearts and homes to four precious doggies who are in desperate need.

We just received a distressing call from a marvelous Good Samaritan, a lovely lady in Carmel Valley who absolutely adores animals and has rescued more than her share. Although her orphans are happy, well-mannered and perfectly cared for, Animal Control has informed her that four of her doggies must go.

She is in absolute despair and sick at heart about having to part with her beloved pets. She has asked for my help in placing them, so I appeal to you to please help us help them. All four of these angels are house pets. They are house-trained and perfectly well-behaved. I want you to meet:

Samantha: An adorable black and tan female poodle mix, spayed, 3 years young, about 10#, sweet, gentle and loving.

Thistle: A tiny, female Chihuahua/terrier mix, also 3 years young, spayed, a darling little bundle of love.

Sara: A fabulous female collie/shepherd mix, 6 years, spayed, a beautiful big (85#) girl, sweet-tempered and affectionate.

Geist: A perfect specimen. Gorgeous black & tan pure German Shepherd, male (to be neutered), 3 years, a real winner who loves the ladies but doesn't get along with other male dogs.

These are "people" dogs who are used to being a part of the family. There isn't much time, so won't you give them a chance? PLEASE CALL 659-3327 if you're interested in any of these sweet doggies. And thanks for caring!

Comfy Dog Beds

My beautiful Buster Brown, who recently had hip replacement surgery, is using a fabulous new doggy bed that was sent to me as a gift. I'm so impressed with this product that I want all of you to know about it, so you'll all run out and find one for your Best Friend.

Comfy Dog Beds were created by a lady named Marianne Stuart, who was trying to produce a comfortable bed for her ailing Irish Setter. Her orthopedic bed, which she now manufactures and sells nationwide, is used and recommended by veterinarians because of its top-notch quality and excellence. She uses the best hospital foam to provide even weight distribution that benefits senior pets, pets with arthritis, hip dysplasia, and elbow problems, and is a "must" for post-operative animals.

I could go on and on about this terrific product, but suffice it to say, Buster adores it and finds it so comfortable he doesn't want to get off! You won't find a better bed for your beloved pet, so ask your pet supply shop for a Comfy Dog Bed. And if they can't help you — I can.

Write to the J&M Stuart Co., 9 Claychester, St. Louis, MO 63131. Or call (314) 822-4946. You'll be glad you did!

See you next week!

(Written in collaboration with Judy Ruby, Director, Doris Day Pet Foundation, Los Angeles).

Obituaries

Mat Laky

Mat Laky, former student body president of Carmel High School's class of 1959, died April 16 of a cerebral hemorrhage at Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland, Ore., surrounded by friends and family. He was 51.

Mr. Laky was born Feb. 21, 1941 in Budapest, Hungary, fleeing that country at the age of 7 with his mother, brother and sister. The four were joined by Mr. Laky's father, who escaped after being imprisoned by the Communists.

The family immigrated to the United States in 1948 and moved to Carmel in 1957. His mother, the late Zita Laky, was a well-known local artist and his father, the late Laszlo Laky, was a Carmel art dealer.

Trained in architecture at the University of California, Berkeley, he joined the firm of Skidmore, Owings, and Merrill in 1967 and worked in their Washington, D.C. and Portland, Ore. offices. He helped select the first home of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art on Dolores Street in Carmel.

Mr. Laky returned to Portland in 1977 to open Portland Antique Co., formerly Morecombe Bay Antiques. An urban visionary, Laky located his fledgling enterprise in the Northwest warehouse district, which he knew would one day become a vital neighborhood housing lofts, restaurants and theaters.

In the intervening years, Portland Antique Co. has become one of the largest retailers of antiques on the West Coast.

According to his close friend, Assemblyman Sam Farr of Carmel, in addition to being an antique dealer, he was also an "art collector, world traveler, avid theater-goer, lover of fine food and wine and party-giver extraordinaire."

Mr. Laky is survived by his son, Mario Sanchez-Lakey, 13, of Seattle, Wash.; his brother Laszlo, a San Jose business consultant; Gyongy of San Francisco, a sculptor and professor at the University of California at Davis.

Friends have asked that charitable contributions in honor and memory of Mat Laky be sent to the Big Sur Land Trust.

Simeon Vitis Galginaitis

Simeon Vitis Galginaitis, of Pebble Beach, a retired research physicist and professor of physics, died April 14 at his home. He was 70.

A tribute to Harry Downie

(A tribute to Harry Downie delivered at the March 12, 1980 meeting of the Carmel Rotary Club.)

Tomorrow morning, Harry Downie, a great Carmelite will be laid to rest at the Mission of San Carlos del Rio Carmelo where he has labored these past 49 years with such skill and dedication rebuilding the Mission from years of neglect and ruin.

Harry was a Renaissance man. Self-educated, he was a craftsman and artist, an architect, engineer and a collector of an outstanding library of California. He was consulted by historians, archaeologists and anthropologists. He became a legend in his own time.

Every mission and historic building in California felt directly or indirectly the touch of his genius. Carmel, however, was the recipient of his greatest interest, talent and love. The Carmel Basilica is his lasting memorial and if Harry is listening, and I feel sure he is, I can hear him say, "Knock off the flattery Larry, lay off the malarkey. I'm busy checking into some disputed details of Carmel Mission history with Padres Serra, Crespi and Lasuen. I've already checked out St. Peter's Gate and inspected all the archangel's mansions."

Thank you, Harry, for being our friend—for being you. Carmel will miss you but never forget you.

Author, Author: Writers expound on literary life

"How did you become a writer?"
"Where do you get your plot ideas?"
"How many hours a day do you spend writing?"

"What sort of research do you do?"
"How long did it take you to sell your first book?"

The scene is Harrison Memorial Library's reading room and the questions are flying thick and fast from the audience at "Authors-by-the-Sea."

Answering the questions are world-famous writers who come from throughout the state to help the library raise money to buy books for its patrons. Writers talking about writing to people who love to read: that's what "Authors-by-the-Sea" is all about.

COLLIN WILCOX

Tickets at $12 each have sold out for each of the four "Authors-by-the-Sea" evenings held since November and are selling briskly for the next one, which will begin at 8 on Friday night, April 24.

They may be purchased at the library's circulation desk. All proceeds from "Authors-by-the-Sea" go to the library's book fund.

Collin Wilcox and Terry Kennealy will be the speakers. Wilcox, author of 27 books, is considered to be a master of the contemporary police procedural novel. His books include Victims, A Death Before Dying, and Silent Witness.

Kennealy, a working private eye who writes about a private eye named Nick Solo, gets glowing reviews for his use of humor and attention to the details of a private investigator's life in his books, which include Polo Solo and Polo, Any-one?

Friday night's "Authors-by-the-Sea" will be the last one of this series. Plans are already under way for the next "Authors-by-the-Sea," which will begin in October with the appearance of three Southern California authors who write for television.

Both authors are residents of the San Francisco Bay Area and will be donating their time to appear in Carmel. Their lodging will be provided by Holiday House of Carmel, which has generously lodged all of the library's visiting authors. Wilcox and Kennealy will also receive complimentary dinners at the Pine Inn.

SEVEN WESTONS have donated photographs for the Forest Theater Guild's 1992 fund-raising auction, including (left to right), Kim, Paulette, Cole, Ted, and Neil Weston. The auction is set for May 13.

All in the family: photos from 7 Westons highlight guild auction

THE FOREST Theater Guild's 1992 fund raising will kick off with an auction of unique as well as rare items, including photographs taken by seven Westons: a father, three sons, two grandsons and one daughter-in-law, to raise much needed funds for the upcoming season. The auction will also be the first time so many Westons have shown together.

For 1992, the Forest Theater Guild will be producing John Steinbeck's The Grapes of Wrath (June 11 through July 12) followed by the Rogers and Hart Musical The Boys from Syracuse (July 23 through Aug. 23).

Cole Weston, president of the guild, has been directing the plays for the guild for over 40 years. He commented, "during the 50's, 60's and 70's a production could cost about $2,000 to put on, and this would be covered by ticket sales. Today, the cost is about $18,000, and in order to keep ticket prices affordable, we just can't pay for the productions from these sales. Therefore, we need to raise considerable funds from other activities. We are hoping that this auction will get us on our way."

The auction will take place at 7 p.m. on May 13 at the Pine Inn, Carmel. Tickets are available for $25 and will include wine, soft drinks and hors d'oeuvres.

For reservations and more information call 624-7165 or 626-1681, or mail your checks together with your name, address and telephone number to the Forest Theater Guild, P.O. Box 2325, Carmel, CA 93921.

Staff Players to wax poetic in two widely differing events

TWO WIDELY differing evenings will alternate at the Indoor Forest Theatre April 23 through 26 and April 30 through May 3. Thursday and Saturday evenings will feature "Remarkable Victorians," Friday evening and Sunday afternoon the "Irreverent 20th Century."

Members of the Staff Players Repertory Co. past and present will include Karner Benjamen, Philip Clarkson, Marcia Hovick, Loel Shuler, Ellis Allbee, Lillian Dean, Steve Harris, Barbara Shuler and more.

Dramatic monologues, dialogues and story telling poems will be included by Browning, Hardy, Kipling and more recent masters of the genre. For information about the program of your choice, call the theater at 624-1531.

"Poetry at the Indoor Forest" is presented in place of Britannicus. The final production in the SPRC '91-'92 season will be Aria Da Capo with madrigals, directed by Philip Clarkson, May 7 through May 24.

For reservations for the madrigal production or the poetry at the Indoor Forest, call 624-1531.

Notre Dame organist to perform in Carmel

THE CHURCH of the Wayfarer in Carmel will present Jean-Pierre Leguay, titular organist at Notre Dame in Paris, France, in a recital on the church's new organ, Sunday, April 26 at 4 p.m.

CHS hosts Springfest '92

CARMEL HIGH School is sponsoring a spring carnival, Springfest '92, to be held from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, April 25 at Carmel High School, Highway 1 and Ocean Avenue.

The event, held for one day only, will include games, food, live music and rides. The event is free and free parking is available at the school.

For more information, call Chad Lincoln at 624-1821.

Jean-Pierre Leguay is one of Europe's most honored organists named to his current post in 1986. His most recent CD is a recording of the organ works of Johannes Brahms. Jean-Pierre Leguay is blind and is assisted by his wife.

In addition, the church is continuing its Wednesday noontime pipe organ recitals featuring organists from the peninsula, Salinas and other places, such as Santa Cruz and Sunnyvale.

These noontime recitals last from 30 to 45 minutes. These programs feature compositions played on the new 32-rank Schoenstein Pipe Organ installed last year.

Donations for this concert are $12 for sanctuary seating and $8 for garden room seating. The church, located at Seventh and Lincoln, can be reached at 624-3550 for further information.

Tandy's dandy: dance troupe explores Blake

PERFORMANCE CARMEL contemporary arts series will present the springtime-bright Tandy Beal Dance Co. in two shows this weekend at Sunset Center.

raphy with Blake's powerful verse and visual images, using classical and contemporary music plus enlarged projections of his paintings. One respected critic called the whole "astonishing...even brilliant."

Tandy Beal and Co., founded in 1974, calls Santa Cruz its home base. Audiences around the world have seen that the dancing (main focus) only gains through the addition of music and theater. Another critical reaction: "...the best qualities of modern dance: intellect without pretense; humor without buffoonery; depth without anxiety."

Rewarding concert

BRITISH BORN pianist Stephen Hough at the age of 31, is definitely a world-class practitioner of the art of the piano. Not too many such artists come our way, and it was particularly rewarding to be able to be up close to see and hear him in the pleasant ambiance of Carmel's Sunset Center auditorium, Sunday afternoon.

Keyboard Artist Series get the credit for exposing our local music lovers to Hough's outstanding talents, and I, for one, hope they will bring him back again soon.

Hough began in reserved fashion with William Byrd's "Aston's Ground," a composition in the format of variations on a harmonic bass theme. Written for the virginals, the English form of the harpsichord, the work brims with beautifully precise, clearly outlined Baroque embellishments.

An erudite air

It is music with an erudite air, almost as much for the eye as the ear. In this interpretation it was a carefully crafted, stately musical procession moving tranquilly along, albeit with a certain underlying plaintive quality.

The artist who described himself as an "unashamed romantic" displayed all the finest characteristics of the genre in his performance of the "Sonata in B Flat Major" D. 960 by Schubert. The lyric beauty poured into the opening movement by the composer was brought out with a singing legato touch and liquid fluency. The sensitivity of the conception gave eloquence and color to the content. The drama of several long and gradually building crescendi was very successfully accomplished, but one always enjoyed the recurring loveliness of the songful primary theme.

The second movement was also outlined with exquisitely projected legato phrasing and singing tone. There was a feeling of poetic involvement and purity of purpose. Even the "Sturm und Drang" of the middle section was stated with well-drawn dramatic contrasts.

The Scherzo was light and lively but in a suitable dynamic range so as not to jar the listener's ear after the delicacy of the preceding Andante. The finale was spirited and sparkling with many dance-like interludes and some more "Sturm and Drang," but all were kept in excellent proportion. This was a performance to keep in one's memory.

The heart of romance

The second half of the program moved on into the heart of the Romantic Era with two Liszt piano transcriptions and two Chopin Scherzos. "Le Triomphe Funèbre du Tasso" is a rarely heard work and it is easy to understand why when one hears what Liszt demands of the performer. The music is massively proportioned and the pianist is asked to produce tone of orchestral volume and character, a nearly impossible task, but Hough made it happen.

He is one of the most successful artists I have heard attempt this feat. The romantic sweep of the broadly outlined octave melodies, the powerful dramatic crashes of chords and the immediate, emotionally tender passages showed the finely focused technique employed to live up to Lisztian requirements.

The artist followed this with two Chopin Scherzos, no. 3 in C Sharp Minor and no. 2 in B Flat Minor. Both were traversed with vitality, riveting dramatic flair and highly impressive pianistic mastery. Drama alternated with poetry and technical superbness, alternated with legato songfulness, all in the most refined taste.

The second Scherzo is an old warhorse of a work, and Hough revived it in splendid fashion. He rippled and flowed through it with the utmost agility and with strength and color in the chordal passages. His is a sophisticated awareness of the musical content, a facet to be valued when one thinks of all the piano players who have toyed with its opening page, but who can seldom pursue its demands through to the end and, in any case, certainly not the way Hough played it.

Imitative blockbuster

The Liszt transcription of the "Waltz" from Gounod's "Faust" is another orchestrally imitative blockbuster. Hough got everything possible out of the piano with awesome technical strength, but also could sound like a delicately rippling harp and a music box. It was a breathtaking display of dazzling bravura pianism.

To quiet and cool off his very warmly appreciative audience, Hough gave two encores, the refreshingly simple "West Finnish Dance" by Palmgren and his own quasi-Lisztian arrangement of the "March" from The King and I.

The Western Stage will continue its 18th season with the repertory festival production of Bleacher Bums through July 26 in the Studio Theater.

Conceived by actor Joe Mantegna in an improvisational environment, Bleacher Bums has all the spontaneity and excitement of a hot summer afternoon baseball game. This Western Stage production is directed by TWS Production Manager, Al Strunk.

The audience faces the stands at a Chicago Cubs game and experiences a full nine-inning baseball game through the eyes, ears and personalities of several fans, whose enthusiasm ranges from intense to fanatical.

The nine-member cast will be seen throughout the season in other festival productions, which include Damn Yankees, the baseball musical, on the main stage July 3 through 18 (a theater double-header!).

For more information on The Western Stage 18th Repertory Festival call 755-6816.

Our Country's Good

Timberlake Wertenbaker's Our Country's Good continues in the SRO Theater at Monterey Peninsula College. Nick Zanides directs this MPC Drama Department production.

This play sets an infant civilization on stage as it relates the true story of the first theatrical performance in Australia. The story is highly theatrical, often funny, and, at times, dark and disturbing.

Performances of Our Country's Good will be presented at 8 p.m. Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays, and at 7 p.m. Sundays through May 3.

Advance tickets, $6 each, are available through the MCTA Box Office, 655-3200. Tickets will be $9 at the door.

HMS Pinafore

The Wharf Theater will set sail with Gilbert & Sullivan's HMS Pinafore at 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, and 8 p.m. Sundays, from April 17 through June 7 at the theater located at the end of Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey.

Produced by Angela DiGirolamo, directed by Gina Welch-Hagen, with musical direction by Barney Hulse and choreography by Gloria Elber, the production features John Espino, Mark Breckenridge, David Mars, Howard Hinckley, Nancy Williams, Dana Speery, and Stephi Waldrip, as well as a large group of "sailors and ladies."

Tickets are $10 for adults and $5 for children. For reservations, please call 649-2332 or 372-1373.

Lady Audley's Secret

Continuing through May 23 is the 500th play production California's First Theatre's Troupers of the Gold Coast since it reopened to public performances 55 years ago.

Lady Audley's Secret, (or Luke Mark's Revenge, as it's also known), is a play with a twist: role reversal. The gal's the villain and this she does in true cloak-and-dagger tradition: there's bribery, deception, murder, blackmail and scandal.

The First Theatre is located in the heart of downtown Monterey on the corner of Pacific and Scott streets. The box office is open Wednesdays through Saturdays at 1 p.m. Performances are held Fridays and Saturdays. Tickets are $7 for adults, $6 for seniors and teens, $5 subteens.

For more information, call 375-4916.

Bleacher feature

THE WESTERN Stage in Salinas will present the nine-inning comedy Bleacher Bums, April 25 through July 26 at the Studio Theater of the Hartnell College Performing Arts Center. Among those appearing in the play are Donna Federico, Ron Cacas, Lance Marsh and Marc Mural. For ticket info call the box office at 755-6816 or 375-2111.

A Bad Year for Tomatoes

On Thursday, April 23, Carmel High School's drama department will present its first performance of A Bad Year for Tomatoes by John Patrick.

This two-act play is directed by Tom Clifford.

The play is about a famous actress who decides to move to a small town in Vermont to get away from the pressures of Hollywood. To stop the local townspeople from bothering her, she invents a violent, half-witted sister to scare them away.

The production features Alison Strickland, Heather Eagle Sura-Quay Arbon, John Bonynge, James Genone, Jessica Hanna, and Chad Belisario.

Performances will be held April 23, 24, 25, and May 1 at 8 p.m., Thursday, April 30 at 7:30 p.m., as well as a special matinee performance on Friday, April 24 at 3:30 p.m.

Fascinatin' Gershwin

Workshop Productions continues its new musical Fascinatin' Gershwin—A Life in Concert, showcasing the music of George and Ira Gershwin.

Featured in the cast are five of the areas favorite multi-award winning theater artists: director of Evita and Into the Woods, Sid Cato; director of Jesus Christ Superstar and the Witch from Into the Woods, Laura Akard; Cinderella's Prince from Into the Woods, David Auerbach; Perchik in Fiddler on the Roof and director of Closer Than Ever, Patrick Spike; and Eva in Evita, Susan Howard.

With original book and musical arrangements by David Auerbach, the show is a journey, relating the life and progression of George Gershwin's genius through the eyes of his brother Ira and the unrestrained music that was his true voice.

Performances for this independent production are scheduled at the Grovermont Theatre Arts Center 320 Hoffman at Lighthouse, Thursdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 7 p.m., through May 2.

For reservations call the theater at 649-6852 or the MCTA Box Office at 655-3200.

"I had never heard anything like it. I put on the Magic Flute (Overture) and he had it all right, the double-dotting and everything. Six months ago I had never heard of Bruno Weil, but he's amazing. He has an infallible sense of tempo..."

The people at the record companies said to me, 'What are we going to do with all our old recordings?' I said, think of them as grandfathers and put them in the archives. Once you get used to this sound, even Karl Boehm seems old fashioned."

Stronger and stranger

No ONE would believe it unless it was actually happening, but the music scene on the Monterey Peninsula seems to get stronger (and stranger) as the year goes by.

By the end of next week we'll have had three acts that in past years used to fill stadiums and 15,000-seat arenas. Now they're playing in places like Doc Ricketts' Lab, Shanty Malone's and the Boiler Room.

Blue Oyster Cult, Greg Kihn, and Quiet Riot all have had chart-topping records to their credits and legions of fans. Those fans may still be out there, but they sure weren't buying much in the past year or so, whether you're talking about recordings or concert tickets.

This summer, however, the music business will probably see a big boost over last year's near-disaster, what with several big-name acts on tour (U2 played the Oakland Coliseum last Saturday to kick off the concert season in a big way), including Springsteen, the Dead, Bob Dylan, Genesis etc. That and the waning of the recession should mean good news to musicians, bookers, promoters and fans alike.

There is a downside to this rosy outlook, however, at least to the music fans in this area. Groups like BOC, Kihn and Quiet Riot wouldn't be playing Monterey if they could be selling millions of units and filling those 15,000-seat arenas. When Blue Oyster Cult plays Doc's and Quiet Riot the Boiler Room, times are tough for the music industry and acts are taking bookings practically wherever they can get them. But this way we get to see these acts in, for lack of a better phrase, the cozy confines of the aforementioned venues, not have to pay an arm and a leg, and get home in time to watch David Letterman (or Dennis Miller).

BOC, a band that used to surreptitiously tour nightclubs under the nom de plume Soft White Underbelly to avoid the mad rush that would have ensued had they used their real name, is using their given name these days.

When I first heard the band in college in the early '70s I thought no one could touch Buck Dharma as a guitarist and no one could top the band as standard-bearers for what was then known as hard rock and would later become known as heavy metal, not even Black Sabbath, Deep Purple or even Ozzie Osbourne.

Now they're without thundering drummer Albert Bouchard, but as far as I know, Dharma is still with them, which makes it worth the price of admission alone. That's at Doc Ricketts' Lab on Cannery Row, 9 p.m. Monday, April 27. Info: 649-4241.

As for San Francisco rocker Greg Kihn, he'll probably play and record as long as he can find some way to use his last name in an album title (Rockin' Roll, Unkhnrollable, Kihnsolidation, etc.), and that could be a very long time.

"I thought that I had (exhausted all the possibilities)," the ever-ebullient Kihn said in a phone interview from his Bay Area home. "I get a lot of ideas from people who just walk up to me. It started out as a joke, now it's turned into a monster."

Kihn's had a slew of Top 40 hits under his belt (The Breakup Song, Jeopardy, Lucky, Reunited, Happy Man, Love and Rock and Roll), but lately has been content to keep playing his trademark catchy pop-rock the way he started, in nightclubs.

He's always surrounded himself with topnotch musicians (Larry Lynch, Joe Satriani, among others), and this latest band is no different. He's got drummer Tyler Eng (Elvin Bishop, Queen Ida, and our own Terry Hanck) back, as well as former Eddie Money/Tina Turner guitarist Jimmy Lyon. Original member Steve Wright is still with the band and keyboardist Ozzie Ahlers (Jerry Garcia Band) rounds out the hard-rockin' crew.

GREG KIHNS

FUSION BAND Kilauea, along with Heather Mullen and Kevyn Lettau, kick off Concert Series '92 at 6 p.m. Sunday, April 26 at the Hyatt Regency Monterey. For tickets call: 998-BASS or 649-4241 (Doc Ricketts' Lab).

"This band is better (than previous ones)" he says. "This band is spectacular. You know you've been in a band a long time when you get alumni coming back. They're doing graduate work now."

With this kind of all-star support Kihn has always put on fun and energetic shows full of hook-filled rock and happy-feet pop. Kihn, who has lately taken to writing novels ("Something happened in the past year and now I'm a writing fool"), says the set will consist of one-third new songs (many from his yet-to-be-released, Kihn of Hearts), one-third old, and one-third "fun songs."

Kihn is high on his new recording, which he feels has a more sophisticated (perhaps literate?) sound to it. He's also in the process of recording a solo acoustic album (which one band member suggests he call Kihnfold). But the real kick is playing live before his fans.

"You can't be in it (the music business), just to sell records, you've gotta care about the music," he says, getting serious for a minute. "There's gotta be some integrity in your works. A real band plays at least every week. How can you be in a band and not play?"

As for ideas for using his name in album titles: "I don't think I'll ever run out," he laughs.

The Greg Kihn Band plays Shanty Malone's at 9 p.m. Saturday, April 25. Cover's $10.

Postscript: I neglected to mention one important cog in Sound Track Management's wheel last week: Vicki Harber, not to be confused with the Vicki at Shanty Malone's. I only talk to her at least once a week. The mind is a terrible thing to waste.

THE 35TH San Francisco International Film Festival opens Thursday, April 23 and runs through May 7 at several different theaters in San Francisco, Berkeley, Palo Alto and Santa Clara; that's 15 days of premieres, revivals, special guests and special events in one of the most respected and eclectic film festivals in the world. Highlights include Winona Ryder in Jim Jarmusch's Night on Earth, Gabriele Salvatores' Oscar-winning Mediterraneo, Spalding Gray in Monster in a Box, Robert Altman's Hollywood-skewering comeback The Player, Oscar-winning director Satyajit Ray's indelible Apu Trilogy, and the mind-boggling At the Max: The Rolling Stones in Concert, a film of the Stones' Steel Wheels Tour on the huge 65-by-89-foot IMAX screen at the Pictorium Theater at Great America amusement park.

Festival info is at (415) 931-FILM, tickets can be purchased at all BASS/TM outlets or by phone, (510) 762-BASS. Avoid sell-outs by getting tickets in advance.

UPCOMING EVENTS with a musical bent on the Monterey Peninsula and outlying areas:

- Shanty Malone's continues its weekly "no-cover" bookings of the Norm Ross Trio on Thursdays (at 8 p.m.), and The Northerners on Sundays (at 7).

On Friday, April 24, local favorite Terry Hanck brings in his hot rockin' Soulrockers, with special guests Stevie Gurr (a former Soulrocker who recently played with Dr. John), and Robert Cray Band keyboardist Jimmy Pugh.

Saxman Hanck, just coming off a well-received guest set with Chris Isaak drummer Kenney Dale Johnson's Swingin' Teardrops Revue at Slim's in SF (which also featured Pugh in the house band), has played with a veritable Who's Who of Blues, including his decade-long stint with Elvin Bishop as well as the always in demand Rat Band (now playing with Cray). Hanck has added his rompin' sax to such blues/R&B stalwarts as Lee Dorsey, Allen Toussaint, Tracy Nelson and Etta James.

This all-star set is much like the blues revues Hanck and Pugh put together at The Club of Monterey a few years back. It's good to see them back at it again. Robert Cray band guitarist Tim Kaihatsu and slide master Roy Rogers sat in with those revues.

"We'll cover a lot of ground in an R&B vein," said Hanck in a recent phone conversation. "I'll feature them (Pugh and Gurr) on certain tunes. We'll see how it goes."

The band will include Soulrocker regulars Leonard Gill (B.B. King), on bass and Gary Silva (Elvin Bishop), on drums.

For info on Shanty Malone's shows, call 626-0604.

- Doc Ricketts' Lab on Cannery Row has: rockin' soul and R&B band The Dynatones Thursday, April 23 and the return of roots rockin' Forbidden Pigs on Tuesday,

THE DYNATONES

April 28.

The Dynatones won over a raft of new fans with their rousing show at Mission Ranch on Leap Day this year, mixing in some great old R&B tunes (Mustang Sally), with rock classics and screaming blues numbers. The fortysomething crowd may have been dressed in tuxes and prom dresses, but they kept the dance floor packed and sweating all night long. During the band's finale the guitar player got on singer C.C. Miller's shoulders and paraded around the room without missing a beat. The band is so popular they do at least 300 gigs around the country, from roadhouses to ski lodges. Their latest, Chopped and Channeled is out on Rhino Records.

If roots rockabilly/blues is to your liking, the aforementioned Pigs may be the perfect answer. They're a manic blues-busting trio in the mold of the Paladins.

Local bands playing in the coming weeks include The Young Presidents, Friday and Saturday, April 24-25; the Lazy Hurricanes, April 26; Terry Hanck & the Soulrockers, April 27; Eight-Second Ride, April 29; and Lovers & Strangers, April 30.

Info on all shows can be had by calling 649-4241.

- Portofino Cafe in PG will feature "Bravo—An Evening of Music from South America" at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 23. The group features the Paraguayan harp of Ramon Romero and the incomparable percussive effects and drumming of Macucho, as well as guitar from Scotland Spelias and Carol Vassar on harp. Not to be missed. Tickets are $10. You'd be well advised to get tickets early.

On Friday, April 24, San Francisco Bay Area singer-songwriter Peter Lamson will give a folk concert at 8. Cover's $5.

On Saturday, April 25 Dale Miller will play acoustic blues on the guitar at 8 p.m. Six dollars at the door.

For reservations or further information about concerts at Portofino, call 373-7379.

- Jonah and the Whale Watchers play The Club of Monterey on Thursday, April 23 and the Monterey Brewing Company on April 28.

For more info on the band and its availability, call Coco at 625-5260.

UPCOMING SHOWS at The Catalyst in Santa Cruz include: Tocara (April 23); Joe Louis Walker (April 24); Dr. Loco's Rockin' Jalapeno Band (April 25); and Social Distortion, with Peg Boy and The Best Kissers in the World (April 26 — 16 and over show); Dennis Brown with Lloyd Parks & We the People (April 29); Doors Hotel (April 30 — Dollar Night).

Poetry reading, art awards to be held at Cherry Hall

DREAMING ART, the Cherry Foundation's month-long series of programs focusing on art forms rendering the unconscious mind, will conclude with a poetry reading and awards presentation on Saturday, April 25th at the foundation.

Beginning at 2 p.m. first, second and third-place prizes will be awarded to winners, as well as honorable mention prizes for the dream-inspired work.

Poets were encouraged to appropriate imagery and symbols from dreams, intuition and the psychic and render them in 24 lines or less for the annual Cherry fund-raiser.

In addition to the poetry winners, dramatist Rosamond Goodrich Zanides will provide a special reading of Cherry Foundation mentor Jeanne D'Orge's (Mrs. Carl Cherry) award-winning early verse.

D'Orge, who was primarily known as an artist, was a published poet and playwright at age 20 and was associated with the "Others," a group of iconoclastic poets.

The Cherry Foundation is located at the corners of Fourth and Guadalupe, Carmel. For more information, call 624-7491. Cherry Foundation programs are made possible, in part, through grants from the Monterey County Cultural Council, the city of Carmel-by-the-Sea and the McMahan Foundation.

Poets were encouraged to "appropriate imagery and symbols from dreams, intuition and the psychic realm and render them in 24 lines or less" for the annual foundation fund-raiser.

Winners will read aloud, with fine area actress Rosamond Goodrich Zanides doing a special reading of award-winning early verse by Jeanne D'Orge (foundation mentor and Mrs. Carl Cherry). ### VISIT TO MARS

With bouncing step I walk upon old Mars,
My moon boots stirring chalky dust, my space
Suit narrowing my stride, the pitted scars
Of ancient wars inhibiting my pace.

I look for color—all is gray or brown.
I sniff the air—no perfume but decay.
I listen for a song—there is no sound.
I reach for living hand—encounter clay.

Embarrassed that I've come so far for this task: "Was Mars another Earth than knew
The nuclear secret and its synthesis
But failed to use its power with mercy, too?"

I woke: The air was spicy, orchids bloomed,
The larks sang, my love smiled, and life resumed.

—Ruth M. Parks

If I fly away

and fill your eyes with sky stand in wind that blows only and take a breath forme.

Hike the hills and sweat forme—
and soak in the sun

Don't forget that

Jazz Tides

Jazz is in session

EDUCATION ENTERS the spotlight this weekend at our county fairgrounds as Monterey Jazz Festival presents its 22nd annual California High School Competition.

The bright occasion kicks off at eight o'clock Friday night (4/24) in the Monterey Room. Pro jazz musicians who serve as competition judges again will show their wares via a free public concert.

Fest spokesperson Paul Fingerote says the featured performers will include Bill Berry, George Bohanon, Tee Carson, Bruce Forman, Jackie Kelso, Vince Lateano, Jack Nimitz, Herman Riley and Scott Steed plus vocalists Madeline Eastman and Gail Dobson. Opening this show — the fest-sponsored Monterey County High School Honors Band. (Don Schamber from Monterey Peninsula College directs.)

From 9 a.m. through 4 p.m. Saturday (4/25), high school combos, big bands and vocal groups from across the state will compete for cash awards and the honor of playing at the 35th MJF in September (9/18-20).

Audition tapes are judged yearly by jazz educators at the famed North Texas State University; this no-cost Saturday show brings only the finalists into the public eye. Representing the Monterey Bay Area will be the Aptos High School combo and jazz singers, and two vocal units from Santa Cruz High.

At seven o'clock Saturday night, the three best big bands come back for a final blow-down. Then all the winners will be announced.

Sunday (4/26) is when individual players will experience closed one-on-one auditions with judges. The winners here gain slots in the California High School All-Star Band, which tours Japan each year along with playing the festival.

All in all, it's a wonderful and high-energy offering. See you there? (Aided substantially by MCI Communications, Monterey Jazz Festival spends $100,000 per year on educating young folks.)

Meanwhile, Youth Music Monterey announces details of its annual Jazz Camp at Robert Louis Stevenson School. Dates — June 28 through July 17.

"Talented junior and high school students study and perform under the direction and supervision of a faculty active in recording, teaching, performing and the TV and film industries," Program Director Reg Huston says. "Each student is assigned to a big band which rehearses daily and performs each week. Additional performing opportunities are offered in a variety of combos — and fundamentals of instrumental technique are stressed in private lessons and master classes."

Faculty artists-in-residence include saxists Virginia Mayhew, Fred Sturm and Brian Scanlon. Also: John Coppola (trumpet), Robert Hudson (trombone), Jim Fox (guitar), Don Kasper (bass), Matt Harris (piano) and Roland Wilcox (drums).

"Guest artist Bruce Forman (superb guitarist) will be joining the faculty," Huston adds. "Another special guest — saxophone professor Ramon Ricker from Eastman School of Music. Jazz Camp scholarships for Monterey County students are provided by Monterey Jazz Festival."

From July 5-9, Ricker will conduct a teachers' workshop on building a school jazz program. For tuition and other details — for the full information packet, in fact — call Youth Music at 375-1992.

This will be the third summer that Youth Music and Eastman have collaborated on the session. They were brought together by the late Ruth Fenton.

JAZZ-LOVERS WHO enjoy special summer excursions have been handed some goodies. Friends of Filoli — Filoli Gardens at the old mansion in Woodside stand amongst the planet's most beautiful — announce their second season. These weekend afternoon jazz events run from May 31 all the way to September 27.

Cost: $30 per show or $125 for the five-event series. Each program starts at 1:30 p.m. You can arrive an hour earlier and wander the lovely acreage. Refreshments will be served each time.

The kick-off show — Jazz Voices — has the singer/bass duo of Nancy King and Glen Moore (he's from the band Oregon.) Also Mary Stallings and Kitty Margolis supported by the Don Haas Trio.

Then: Latin jazz with the Cal Tjader alumni unit Radcliffe (6/28), trad jazz from the celebrated Jim Cullum Band (8/1), Eddie Marshall Quintet (8/30), Full Faith and Credit Big Band plus vocalist Morning Nichols (9/27).

A Jazztalk segment moderated by KJAZ Radio's Bud Spangler gives audience members a chance to take part in question-and-answer exchanges with the various artists. Info: (415) 285-3820.

AVECHEART: Vibist Bill Jackson will be the guest artist in the Sunday Afternoon Jazz Series at Doc Ricketts' Lab (4/26). These four-hour gigs start at two o'clock; $3 per at the door.

Bill, a Monterey Jazz Festival board member, has been on the area scene for many years. He owns a strong reputation for warm and swinging renditions. And he's an extraordinary human being.

The John Cortes Quartet (Cortes books this series) plays behind each week's guest. On May 3 — CD party centered on flutist Ali Ryerson and her latest package.

- Portofino Coffee House in Pacific Grove will present the acoustic blues of guitarist Dale Miller on Saturday night (4/25). The concert starts at eight o'clock; $6 per. Reservations: 373-7379. Next evening — jazz freebie with Joseph Lucido's crew.

- Kuumbwa Jazz Center of Santa Cruz brings forth guitarist John McLaughlin on Monday night (4/27). With truly amazing drummer Trilok Gurtu and bassist Dominique Di Piazza. Shows at 7:30 and 9:30; $15 advance (Ticketmaster) or $17 at the door.

- It's well worth mentioning again. Jazz broadcaster David Gitin of KAZU Radio celebrates his show's 12th anniversary ("non-stop") on April 26. Congratulations.

- Organizer Alice Leyland says the next Fats Waller Jazz Festival (Watsonville) will feature the West Coast Players doing excerpts from the Waller musical Ain't Misbehavin' during the weekend of June 26-28. Ticket info: 1-728-3948.

- Monterey Bay Club has cut back on live jazz but still offers the Monterey County Jazz Orchestra on Monday nights.

- Madeline Eastman's new album will be out in May from the MadKat label of San Francisco. And what a backup band for the very stylish singer: Phil Woods, Cedar Walton, Vince Lateano, Tony Dumas, Michael Spiro. Monsters.

- Keyboardist James Forkner's Boppa Nova plays Sunday Brunch Jazz at Kiewel's Cafe in Heritage Harbor. At Friday Happy Hour too (5-7).

Make a child's wish come true

Do you have a boy's or girl's bicycle in good condition that you no longer use? If so, contribute it, tax-deductible, to the Buddy Program of the Monterey Peninsula. For details, call 655-9231.

Foster care families needed

The Office of Community and Children's Services needs homes willing to share their families with children who need an alternative home—whether it be for six months or the whole year - while family reunification services are offered, or eventually a permanent home. Almost every currently licensed foster home is filled, the office reports. For information about fostering or adopting a child, call 899-8061 or 755-4660.

YWCA offers help to abused women

Across the United States a woman is physically abused every 15 seconds. The YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula offers help to women who feel trapped in a potentially harmful situation through counseling, a 24-hour crisis line and a shelter for battered women and their children. If you or someone you know is in an abusive relationship, let them know there is a way out. Contact the YWCA Domestic Violence Crisis Line at 372-6300.

Assistance needed at women's shelter

Do you feel domestic violence is a problem? Would you like to do something to help? Do you have three hours per week to volunteer?

If you answered "yes" to these questions, the YWCA Women's Shelter needs you. For more information, call 372-6300.
